GC Center for Georgia Studies
Spring Lecture

A Presentation by John T. Edge

Founding Director of the Southern Foodways Alliance at the Center for the Study of Southern Culture at the University of Mississippi

"Potlikker, Pollo, and Home: A Conversation About Identity, the Lure of Exploration, the Glare of Television, and the Meanings Wrapped Up in This Place We Call the South"

John T. Edge is one of this country's foremost experts on Southern foodways. He is the author of The Potlikker Papers: A Food History of the Modern South, and has been awarded two MFK Fisher Distinguished Writing Awards by the James Beard Foundation. His writing has appeared in the New York Times, Garden & Gun, and the Oxford American. He currently hosts the television show TrueSouth which airs on the SEC Network and ESPN.

Date: Monday, March 7th
Location: Peabody Auditorium
Time: 4 p.m.

Sponsored by the Center for Georgia Studies, the Department of History and Geography, and the GC Global Foodways Program

(For additional information, please contact Mark Huddle at mark.huddle@gcsu.edu)