Outdoor Emergency Notification System Test Wednesday, July 5

Public Safety : Wednesday July 5, 2023

Georgia College & State University will test the Outdoor Emergency Notification System (siren system) Wednesday, July 5, 2023. This test is scheduled to occur the first Wednesday of every month between 10 a.m. and noon and last approximately one minute. No action is required during the testing, and all campus operations should continue as normal. A message stating that this is a test will precede and follow the "alert" tone. In the case of an actual tornado warning, the message would advise of a tornado warning, and the tone would cycle through. This would be repeated every five minutes until the warning expires or is canceled, at which time an all clear message would sound. The audible system test will only be tested when clear sky conditions are present. Tests will not occur when skies are dark or severe weather is predicted for the area on the day the test is scheduled to occur. In this case, the test will be rescheduled for later in the month.

There are three sirens operated by GCSU in Baldwin County: one on West Campus and two on Main Campus.

This testing program is designed to maintain a reliable warning system and to meet recommended testing guidelines. Additionally, we want to maximize the effectiveness of the Outdoor Emergency Notification System. By performing these tests, we hope to enhance awareness and education regarding emergency preparedness at Georgia College and within the local community.

For more information on the Outdoor Emergency Notification System and other campus emergency systems, please visit the emergency systems page on the Public Safety website.

Volunteers Needed - Join the Cat Crew!

University Housing : Wednesday July 5, 2023

The Cat Crew is back for Fall Move-In 2023, and WE NEED YOUR HELP!

Register online, today.

Cat Crew is a volunteer opportunity for faculty, staff and community members who would like to help the on-campus students move into the residence halls and apartments.

Volunteers are needed to assist with checking paperwork, distributing water, providing directions and most importantly, helping unload students' cars and get their belongings into their new rooms.

University Housing opens Thursday, August 17. Students move in between 7:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. in one-hour blocks and volunteers are needed from 7:15 a.m. to 11:00 a.m.

As many as 1,200 students will move in August 17. Participating in the Cat Crew is a great way to introduce your department, RSO, or organization to the newest residents of the Milledgeville and Georgia College Communities.

For questions, contact Matthew Terry at matthew.terry@gcsu.edu.

GCSU's Rural Studies Institute executive director lends expertise to CBS documentary on Black farmers

Rural Studies Institute : Wednesday July 5, 2023

Dr. Veronica Womack, executive director of Georgia College & State University's Rural Studies Institute, was recently interviewed by CBS Reports and predominantly features in its new documentary "40 Acres and a Mule."

The piece aired Thursday, June 22, at 8 and 11 p.m. and is available for viewing at cbsnews.com/land.

Womack, a noted scholar of the rural South, was highlighted in the CBS piece that explores the ways Black Americans are reconnecting to their agrarian traditions, as well as developing ways to produce generational wealth through agriculture, land acquisition and ownership.

While America was residence to a small number of free Black people, most were held in chattel slavery, a system that began while America was a British colony and continued until 1865. Immediately after Emancipation, Black leaders voiced a desire for land and on January 16, 1865, General Sherman signed Field Order 15. It reserved 400,000 confiscated acres of land for newly emancipated Blacks near the Southeast coastal areas of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

The goal was to provide 40 acres of land, and in some cases, a U.S. Army mule. This plan became known as "40 acres and a mule." But the promise was short-lived and rescinded, as President Andrew Johnson revoked Field Order 15 and returned the confiscated land to its owners, immediately after taking office due to President Lincoln's assassination in April of 1865.

CBS reporter Skyler Henry—who formerly worked for 41NBC in Macon as multi-skilled journalist—interviewed Womack in May for the documentary. She's quoted as saying "Land has always been about freedom—political freedom, physical freedom, economic freedom."

Henry asks, "So, land is power?" Womack responds, "Most definitely."

The documentary explores Black agrarian traditions, the "Pigford" decisions—resulting from a class action lawsuit against USDA by Black farmers that affirmed discriminatory practices in loans and assistance by the agency from 1981 to 1996—as well as a history of violence and de facto and de jure discriminatory practices against Black farmers and landowners that resulted in a reported 326 billion dollars of lost Black American acreage.

The documentary also features prominent scholars like Georgia Historical Society President

Todd Groce, and Professor and MacArthur Fellow Thomas Mitchell of Boston College.

Herpetologist and students tracked snakes this summer on Jekyll Island

Biology & Environmental Sciences, Department of : Monday July 10, 2023

Dr. Dominic DeSantis, assistant professor of biology, and 12 students took their snake-sleuthing abilities to the coast this summer to get a better understanding of ways humans affect snake numbers on Jekyll Island.

The group collaborated with the Jekyll Island Authority to especially study the movement ecology of Eastern Diamondback Rattlesnakes. Snakes have been individually tracked on the island for more than a decade. But DeSantis was asked to introduce his new technology that records where snakes go, when they strike, what they eat, how often they reproduce and how they interact.

The group placed tiny accelerometers on snakes to measure vibrations or changes in motion. It's important to observe rattlesnakes, because entire ecosystems can break down without them.

“Our overarching goal for this research is to understand the movement and foraging behaviors of snakes,” DeSantis said. “This includes how ongoing habitat management efforts—such as prescribed burning, brush removal and habitat corridor construction—might alleviate negative effects of human development and activity on the island.”

Students learned important skills, applying essential and emerging data collection techniques used in wildlife biology and natural resource jobs, like radio telemetry and accelerometry.

They were also exposed to the ongoing habitat restoration project at Jekyll Island, aimed at balancing the needs of human and wildlife populations. This gave students a real-life look at how many techniques discussed in class are used to achieve wildlife management goals.

John Jackson named president-elect of the Georgia School Boards Association

Parking & Transportation : Thursday July 13, 2023

Georgia College & State University's John Jackson, director of Parking & Transportation and Baldwin County School Board member, has been elected to serve as president-elect of the Georgia School Boards Association.

His one-year term began in June. After that time, he will advance to president of the GSBA in June 2024.

GSBA represents 180 Georgia school districts.

"I look forward to supporting GSBA's mission and the president," Jackson said.

His focus is on school safety initiatives supported by the State of Georgia, Department of Education and GSBA.

"Safety has become a major focus of public education," he said. "Everything has changed in the last decade, and it's at the forefront of discussions for school boards across the state and country."

According to Jackson, historically school safety has not been a focus.

"Currently, there's not training or resources for school boards, so they can't make informed decisions," he said. "We know a lot about student performance and student success. But when it comes to school safety, it's a new frontier, and it's changing so quickly."

Jackson is also a member of the Baldwin County Charter School System Foundation and the Baldwin County Early Learning Center Policy Council. He's also served as a legislative liaison for GSBA to help shape education policy.

Nadirah Mayweather made director of Alumni Relations

University Advancement : Friday July 14, 2023

Nadirah Mayweather, '08, '10, began her new role as director of Alumni Relations for Georgia College & State University July 5. She'll mix her prior knowledge and new experiences to continue connecting alumni with campus and each other.

Mayweather was director of the university's Cultural Center for nearly four years. During that time, she built relationships with students, faculty, staff and alumni.

Mentoring students was Mayweather's most meaningful accomplishment. She had mentors as a Georgia College student, and she appreciated their guidance.

"We have some phenomenal students here," Mayweather said. "I was blessed to serve in that capacity. To help connect them to resources and watch them grow as they went through Georgia College was rewarding. These experiences came full circle."

As an undergraduate, she majored in mass communication with a public relations focus and earned her Master of Arts in teaching with a concentration in English for sixth through 12 grades.

As the chief liaison with alumni, she'll provide engagement opportunities for diverse generations of alumni and develop programs, events, services and communication vehicles to increase awareness about Georgia College.

Mayweather will work with staff and volunteers to ensure timely alumni outreach and serve as executive director of the Alumni Association Board.

"I see my new position as an opportunity to keep people connected to the institution," she said. "I've been able to do that with students, faculty, staff and community members. Now, I'd like an opportunity to do that in a greater capacity with alumni."

Mayweather wants alumni to have the resources they need to stay connected. She'd also like to tap into their resources. She sees this as a win for both alumni and Georgia College.

"It's important to make sure that the Bobcat family feels important, seen and heard," Mayweather said. "We must nurture one of our biggest assets—our Bobcat family—to make sure everyone's connected and engaged."

“Part of creating a Bobcat nation is to have all the generations connected,” she said. “I think there’s room for growth and an opportunity for us to do that.”

Mayweather plans to keep focus on the people who helped make Georgia College what it is today. That includes faculty, staff, students and alumni—all who understand what it is to be a Bobcat—and help them build connections with fresh waves of students.

“I am thrilled that Nadirah has joined University Advancement as our director of Alumni Relations,” said David Fraboni II, interim vice president of University Advancement and executive director of GCSU Foundation, Inc. “Her experiences over the past 10 years of working closely with many of our students, who are now alumni, will deepen the relationship between all alumni and the university. In addition, her experiences as a double Bobcat, combined with her warm, engaging and organized approach, will bring insights and skills to build opportunities for life-long engagement of our alumni in support of our students and programs.”

Andalusia Institute releases first podcast episode featuring Dr. Kerry Neville

O'Connor Institute : Friday July 14, 2023

The Andalusia Institute's Writing for Success grant launched its new podcast this week. The first episode features Dr. Kerry Neville, associate professor and coordinator of the MFA and Undergraduate Creative Writing Program at Georgia College & State University. Neville and GSCU student Alexia Schauer discuss releasing perfectionism in first drafts, finding your voice as a writer and advice for teachers of writing.

Writing for Success brings together writers of all levels to tell stories, share advice and celebrate the many literary legends with connections to Milledgeville, including our famous alumna Flannery O'Connor. Tune in to hear advice from writers and writing teachers on Wednesdays, and hear students from Baldwin County Schools share their original writing on Fridays.

The Writing for Success grant is a 100% federally funded, $385,000 Community Projects Grant to support literacy in the Baldwin County community. To learn more about our project, visit writingforsuccess.gcsu.edu and follow the Andalusia Institute on social media.

High Demand Alert - Electricity Usage for 7/17

Facilities Management : Monday July 17, 2023

Georgia Power has issued a "day-ahead" Alert for today, 7/17 as higher temperatures result in peak electricity demand that significantly impacts pricing (pricing will rise to $0.47 per kilowatt hour during this peak demand period). Judging from forecasted temperatures, we expect this status will persist throughout the week.

Subject to requirements of orientation and other campus operations, consider shutting down all non-essential lighting during the peak hours of 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. At your discretion, consider unplugging any equipment you deem non-essential. If you have access to windows, use the natural light. When not using natural light, close window blinds. Turn lights off when you leave your office. Keep temperature setpoints at 75 F or higher.

The Office of Sustainability and the Department of Facilities Management would like to thank everyone for your cooperation and understanding in this matter. We urge you to assist with communications by passing this information along to the campus community.

Music therapy student awarded Nicolet Law Scholarship

Music, Department of : Tuesday July 18, 2023

Georgia College & State University senior music therapy major Helen Whitacre has been awarded the Fall 2023 Nicolet Law Scholarship with her video submission about being kind and doing good through music.

In her video, Whitacre explains what music therapy is—an evidence-based practice. She underscores the main ingredient of musical interventions is to be authentic and compassionate with clients. She has served children with emotional and behavioral disorders, adults with intellectual disabilities and older adults with motor deficiencies. In the future, Whitacre hopes to work with vets.

She ends her video by singing a song she wrote about being kind and doing good.

She's quoted at the Nicolet Law Scholarship website as saying, "I am incredibly grateful for being a recipient of the Nicolet Law Scholarship. The impact that this scholarship will have on my education, as well as my ability to serve others is immeasurable. As a music therapy student, this scholarship is giving me the blessing of time to focus on my studies and serve the community that surrounds me. Music has always been a passion of mine, and I am an advocate for its ability to heal, uplift and inspire individuals. Words cannot adequately express the depth of my gratitude for the opportunities that this scholarship allows. I am forever grateful for the doors that this scholarship opens and the countless lives it will touch."

The $5,000 scholarship is given twice a year to help alleviate the financial strain of a college education or master's degree.

Dr. Stephanie Jett, assistant professor of psychology, recently published a study with former co-workers from the University of South Alabama that examines human behavior towards the environment in the biodiverse coastal area of Mobile and Baldwin Counties, Alabama.

The Mobile-Tensaw Delta region is often referred to as America's Amazon due to the fact it's one of the nation's largest, intact wilderness areas and wetland. The study, "Dominant attitudes and values toward wildlife and the environment in coastal Alabama," was recently posted by the Society for Conservation Biology.

Jett was the only psychologist, working alongside biologists and statisticians Sarah Weber Hertel, Jana Stupavsky, Kristine Alford, Hannah R. Hicks, Andrew Heaton, Nathan Katlein, Brandon T. Hasting, Adam Stern, Andrew Y. Wang, Bin Wang, Scott Glaberman and Ylenia Chiari.

"I was brought in because I was born and raised in Mobile," Jett said, "and they were interested in why people behave in a certain way towards the environment, which is the realm of psychology. They also wanted to create a survey measure, which is something that is also my area of expertise."

A hotspot for biodiversity, coastal Alabama has native plants and animals that are vulnerable and need protection, according to the authors. Land and wildlife management practices in that area don't focus on the environment. Land is often exploited for agriculture and plantation use.

"We therefore predicted that a large proportion of the population has a dominant view of the environment in which land and wildlife are primarily for human benefit," according to the study.

To test this hypothesis, the team surveyed more than 1,300 residents in Mobile and Baldwin Counties in Alabama. They wanted to discern attitudes toward local vertebrate wildlife, knowledge of the region's biodiversity and whether individuals value protected areas where they live and work.

Hunting was one aspect used to examine the relationship between humans and the environment. They discovered that hunters, overall, view land and wildlife for human benefit more so than non-hunters. Most survey participants indicated if they came across a snake,

Summary of responses to encountering terrestrial vertebrates based on hunting status. Percentages are calculated as the frequencies of hunters and non-hunters that chose a specific response type (e.g., "call animal control") at least once to any animal out of the total number of participants that answered that question. Hunters are indicated in green and non-hunters in brown.

they'd kill it regardless of whether it was venomous or not. This led the team to suggest environmental education was needed for the Southeast Alabama population in order to protect native snakes from unnecessary harm.

Hunters and non-hunters alike—regardless of income level and education—were also not familiar with the area's rich biodiversity or willing to invest money to protect the environment.

“Our results indicate that targeted education about the unique and rich biodiversity of Southern Alabama, compared to the rest of the United States, is needed to support successful environmental management, conservation actions and local participation,” the study stated.

Jett is now planning a wider study to would include the work of students at Georgia College.

In the next few years, she hopes to tie this work in with another project her students did in 2019-20 on knowledge and attitudes toward sustainability. Students in the Jett's Experimental and Comparative Cognition lab used a variety of participants—including Georgia College peers—to conduct this survey. They found certain personality traits, like narcissism and conscientiousness, were related to different perceptions of sustainability and the importance of government policies being passed by to promote sustainability.

Students may add personality traits to the biodiversity study and expand the territorial area to include a wider, nationwide sample.

Information Technology - Change in IT approver for technology purchases

Information Technology : Tuesday July 18, 2023

Sonny McKenzie, our current director of Technology Support Services, accepted another position, and his last day on campus is this Friday, July 21. Thank you, Sonny, for all you have done. You will be greatly missed. We wish you well.

As a result of this change, please note that you should now add James Lunsford as an approver in PeopleSoft for any technology purchases. This change is effective immediately. The electronic approval for technology purchases and the IT account designation are required to meet audit and reporting requirements.

High Demand Alert - Electricity Usage for 7/18 - 7/21

Facilities Management : Tuesday July 18, 2023

Based on weather-driven forecasted demand across the regional power grid, peak hour pricing for main campus will remain elevated throughout this week, particularly during the peak hours of 1 p.m. to 8 p.m.

While orientation and other priority campus operations will take precedence, at your discretion, consider shutting down non-essential lighting and unplugging non-essential equipment as duty permits during these peak hours. If you have access to windows, use the natural light. When not using natural light, close window blinds. Turn lights off when you leave your office. Keep temperature setpoints at 75 degrees F.

The Office of Sustainability and the Department of Facilities Management thanks everyone for your cooperation and understanding.

Freshmen Requirements Open

Dean of Students : Thursday July 20, 2023

Hello freshman Bobcats!

You have been assigned three required programs from Georgia College & State University.

You are required to take AlcoholEdu, Sexual Assault Prevention for Undergraduates and Hazing Prevention for your Freshman Seminar before you arrive on campus. These programs are open now in your GAView.

If you have previously taken AlcoholEdu and Sexual Assault Prevention for Undergraduates from another school, please email gina.chambers@gcsu.edu, and let her know that you have previously completed these programs.

All three of these programs are due in August. If you are moving in for sorority recruitment, your programs are due August 9. If you are moving in August 16 or 17, your programs are due August 15.

You can access these programs through GAView in the Freshman Requirements course. You may complete the programs in multiple sittings. Each course is about an hour long. Please note, if you have not been enrolled in a Freshman Seminar course, you will not be able to access the Freshman Requirements course to complete these activities. You are strongly encouraged to reach out to the Academic Advising Center at advising@gcsu.edu for guidance.

Please make sure that you complete all three programs before arriving to campus.

If you have trouble with any of the programs: Please try Troubleshooting Tips, and if those fail, submit a case to Vector's support team here.

If you have any questions about the programs, please email gina.chambers@gcsu.edu.

Information Technology Rebranding – Ask IT and IT Help Desk

Information Technology : Monday July 24, 2023

Information Technology is rebranding! We are working on the roll-out of a new ticketing system that we think will be more intuitive and user-friendly. Along with it, we are rebranding our services. Our Serve Help Desk is now the IT Help Desk. This name change brings a new logo, email address and website. The new email address is AskIT@gcsu.edu and the new website is <https://AskIT.gcsu.edu>.

Please make note of this updated information on any resources where you currently reference the Serve Help Desk or the old contact information. ## Important Updates for GeorgiaVIEW

Center for Teaching & Learning : Tuesday July 25, 2023

Significant changes are coming to Quizzes in GeorgiaVIEW! As of Friday, July 28, the following updates will be in effect:

- The New Quiz Creation Experience will be on by default, with no option to opt out. The layout is changing, but it closely matches the New Assignment and New Discussion tools.
- Major changes to the quiz timing options include:
  - The option to allow a grace period will no longer be available.
  - During quiz setup, instructors can choose to automatically submit a student's quiz attempt when the time limit expires.
  - Quiz Submission Views are now called Quiz Results. Additional "Views" can still be created as before.
  - Students will now be able to view the quiz description while in the quiz ("Quiz Information" link).
  - Students can choose to hide or show the timer count-down while taking a quiz.
  - Students will receive one-minute, five-minute and half-time warnings while taking a quiz.
  - Instructors now have the option to designate quizzes as synchronous or asynchronous.
    - A synchronous quiz will be available at the designated start time and last only for the time limit specified by the course instructor. Students who begin their attempt late will have only the amount of time remaining to complete the quiz. For example, if the time limit on a synchronous quiz is 30 minutes and scheduled to begin at 9 a.m., a student who begins their quiz attempt at 9:10 a.m. will only have 20 minutes to complete the quiz.
    - Asynchronous quizzes are similar to the current configuration in that a student will have the full time allotted to complete the quiz as long as the attempt begins within the availability specified by the instructor.
    - By default, new quizzes will be created as asynchronous unless an instructor changes that setting.
  - See presentation for more details on quiz timing changes. All three phases reviewed in the presentation will be live with this update.

In addition to the New Quiz Creation experience, the New Discussion Create and Edit experience will be on permanently.

High Demand Alert - Electricity Usage for 7/25

Facilities Management : Tuesday July 25, 2023

Georgia Power has issued an Alert for today, 7/25, as higher temperatures result in peak electricity demand that will significantly impact pricing. Judging from forecasted temperatures, we expect this status to persist throughout the week.

The campus community is asked to consider shutting down non-essential lighting and unplugging non-essential equipment during these peak hours. If you have access to windows, use the natural light. When not using natural light, close window blinds. Turn lights off when you leave your office. Keep temperature setpoints at 75 degrees F.

Impact your teacher effectiveness ratings through the Objective Selection Form

Center for Teaching & Learning : Thursday July 27, 2023

The Objective Selection Form (OSF) is open for the summer 2023 semester and ends by the closing date of student surveys. The OSF allows faculty to identify targeted learning objectives to measure teaching effectiveness, and faculty response to the OSF drives summative results on the Student Rating of Instruction Survey (SRIS). The primary indicator of teaching effectiveness is how well students rate their progress on learning objectives that faculty mark as important or essential on the OSF. Since every course is different, this research-based, instructor-driven model interprets teaching effectiveness based on indicators identified by the instructor. Most instructors, familiar with their course learning objectives, decide and mark the OSF in 10 minutes or less per course.

You can access the OSF by visiting the "OSF Manager" at <https://gcsu.campuslabs.com/faculty/>. Also, you will receive an email from "SRISadministrator <notification@ce.mail.campuslabs.com>" with additional instructions.

Please contact sris@gcsu.edu with technical questions or concerns. For assistance completing the Objective Selection Form (OSF) by matching your course learning objectives to objectives found in the survey, please contact the Center for Teaching and Learning at ctl@gcsu.edu or 478-445-2520.

Work Order Request

Facilities Management : Friday July 28, 2023

Dear Campus Community,

In order to prepare for the fall semester, our Facilities Management team will be working hard to complete housing turnover and configure facilities in support of the broader return of faculty and students. As in prior years, we anticipate a significant surge in the volume of work requests that have customarily challenged our facilities staff as students and faculty reoccupy resident halls and offices. During this time, we request your patience as we work through this seasonally high operations tempo and request you submit work requests as early as possible ahead of the broader reopening in August. Also, please be advised that requests to hang items such as pictures, whiteboards, televisions, bulletin boards, etc. are necessarily handled as lower priority during this time.

Thanks again for your patience and understanding.
