The Science of Learning

August 26, 12 noon

When Dr. Cynthia Alby teaches students about research-based methods for goal setting, note-taking, reviewing, and test-taking, they always ask her, "Why didn't anyone tell me this years ago?!" Get students off on the right foot this semester by introducing them to these cutting-edge methods.

Assessment for the Digital Learning Environment

August 26, 2 p.m.

Do you feel locked in to assessing students in only one or two ways, a multiple-choice test or through an essay, and want other options? There are various ways to assess student learning outcomes in a digital environment. This session will provide participants with both formative and summative ways to measure student growth and present the benefits of each suggestion.

Registrants will be sent the link to attend the webinar. A recording will be released.

Developing Relationships in a Digital Environment

September 3, 12 noon

Relationship building is one of the main goals of engaging students in a digital learning environment. Several research studies have found a positive correlation between the level of students' persistence and success in an online learning environment and students' perceptions of social presence. There are various tools and techniques that can improve social presence in an online environment which include discussion boards, personalized grading feedback, building collaborative teams, the use of synchronous sessions, and the use of faculty created videos that link to course content. This session will provide participants with information on how to develop relationships with students as well as some of the benefits of the suggested options.

Registrants will be sent the link to attend the webinar. A recording will be released.

Video Recording Solutions for Recording your Presentations or Tutorials

September 8, 2:30 p.m.

Teaching through multimedia is increasingly popular in the 21st-century classroom. The use of sharing feedback, instruction, and step-by-step tutorials enhances learning and allows all learners to learn at a pace that fits best for each individual. In this session, we'll explore the many ways and benefits of using screen recording software. Attendees will learn why they would want to use recording software. This workshop will focus on using Kaltura, a screen recording software, that is built into GeorgiaVIEW. Attendees will learn the basics of recording their screen, saving and uploading video recording files to GeorgiaVIEW, and learn the importance of incorporating a script and closed captions. Attendees will also get a glimpse of additional software that can be used to record what is on the screen.

Registrants will be sent the link to attend the webinar. A recording will be released.

Creating an Inviting and Welcome Space for Learning: Universal Design for Learning

September 10, 1:00 p.m.

Universal Design for Learning (UDL) seeks to create courses that all students find interesting, engaging, and even exciting. UDL provides a positive learning experience for all students. This program provides an overview of Universal Design from its beginning in the field of architecture to its entrance and application. Three (3) UDL principles, as defined by CAST and the National Center on Universal Design for Learning, are introduced through a video by The Center for Excellence in Teaching and Learning at Oakland University, Rochester, MI. Participants will be given the opportunity to discuss each of the three principles; Engagement, Representation, and Action & Representation, and how they might be applied to academic courses. Program participants are provided with any number of resources including information on an interactive graphic explaining the three UDL principles in detail and links to a series of five (5) minute videos explaining the principles.

Registrants will be sent the link to attend the webinar. A recording will be released.

Virtual Feminist Leadership Academy

Women's Center : Tuesday August 25, 2020

Join the Women's Center and LGBTQ+ Programs for the Fall 2020 Feminist Leadership Academy!

The dates for our virtual retreat will be September 11-12, 2020 on Zoom. This retreat will include group sessions, community building and identity workshops, with more detailed logistical information to come in the next week!

The Georgia College Women's Center is continuing the Feminist Leadership Academy (FLA) as a way to bring together women-identifying and ally students to empower them in fostering connections on campus and in the community, as well as discover their personal relationship with feminism. This will allow for expansive conversations around intersectionality, feminism, growing communities of women and exemplifying these values in daily life. FLA will continue to provide historical context about the cultural norms that have limited women's participation in leadership roles. We will continue our conversations on the importance and impact of intersectional feminism and how to continue the work of feminist organizing on-campus in a virtual world!

Below are the Feminist Leadership Academy learning outcomes for the Fall:

- Participants will analyze the impact that their privilege has on leadership roles and opportunities, as well as how to promote power for women who have less access to the same opportunities.
- Participants will collectively engage in formulating solutions that address issues of inequity and incorporate their greater understanding of feminism.
- Participants will be able to identify how their personal values that motivate them to take action in their communities and on their campus have changed and been promoted since the Fall retreat.

Registration is due by September 4, 2020 at <http://bit.ly/FemLead2020>. Please get in touch with Emily Brookshire at emily.brookshire@gcsu.edu if you have any questions!

CTL Webinar: Developing Relationships in a Digital Environment

Center for Teaching & Learning : Friday August 28, 2020

September 3, 12 noon

Relationship building is one of the main goals of engaging students in a digital learning environment. Several research studies have found a positive correlation between the level of students' persistence and success in an online learning environment and students' perceptions of social presence. There are various tools and techniques that can improve social presence in an online environment which include discussion boards, personalized grading feedback, building collaborative teams, the use of synchronous sessions, and the use of faculty created videos that link to course content. This session will provide participants with information on how to develop relationships with students as well as some of the benefits of the suggested options.

Registrants will be sent the link to attend the webinar. A recording will be released.
