Thursday, Feb. 11 A Georgia College evening of percussion music, “Snare Drumming in Solitude,” will feature world premiere compositions for snare drum—an instrument with stiff wires on the side that creates a piercing staccato sound when struck. The 7:30 p.m. online concert highlights original works by eight students and recent graduates, who were paid professional commissions to compose music during the COVID lockdown last spring. The result is a wide-ranging array of contemporary styles and mood for snare drum with some mallet instrumental pieces interspersed. Please follow us on facebook.com/GCMusicDepartment to view this live-steamed concert. A $5 donation is encouraged. Online donations can be made at alumni.gcsu.edu/music. Mail-in donations for music scholarships can be made out to GCSU Foundations, Inc. and sent to GC Music Department, CBX 66, Milledgeville, GA 31061. All proceeds benefit music scholarships or the GC Department of Music through GCSU Foundation, Inc. For more information, please email music@gcsu.edu or call 478-445-8289.

Georgia College Leadership Programs Hosts Gender Equity Specialist as part of Inspire! Forum

Leadership Programs : Friday February 5, 2021

On Monday, February 8th at 5:30 p.m., Georgia College Leadership Programs will host Jane Kim Coloseus, executive director of Her Term. The event is part of the university’s Inspire! Forum on Leadership.

Coloseus is a gender equality specialist who works in traditionally male-dominated industries, including the nuclear sector, national security, and politics. Before her service with Her Term, she was on loan to the International Atomic Energy Agency by the United States government as a gender equality specialist. In that role, she increased the representation of women through dedicated outreach and talent management initiatives, profiled multiple women in the industry to promote women’s work, led internal policy adaptations, and developed workforce balance tracking mechanisms to earn the recognition of a top-performing technical UN organization on gender equality.

“We’re deeply honored to host Jane Kim Coloseus at Georgia College,” says Harold Mock, director of Georgia College’s leadership programs. “She’s a thoughtful and dynamic presenter with a powerful message to share. I’m so glad that our students, faculty, and community will have the opportunity to learn from her.”

Coloseus holds a bachelor of arts degree in anthropology and history from the University of Virginia and MSc in government analytics from the Johns Hopkins University.

The Inspire! Leadership Forum series invites seasoned leaders to Georgia College to share leadership lessons with our students and the community. The forum is designed to be engaging and to allow for exchange between the presenters and guests. Inspire! Forums are intentionally designed to be engaging, insightful, and enjoyable. Interaction and networking are encouraged.

The event is free and open to the public. To register and join this discussion, please visit gcsu.edu/inspire.

Likewise, join the conversation @leadcreatively on Instagram, Facebook, Twitter and LinkedIn.

As I mentioned last week, in the past four years I have drawn upon industry professionals in the Greater Atlanta Region to come 90 minutes down to campus and spend a ½ day in the classroom in Atkinson Hall as Professors for the Day. I brought companies and alumni in during the Spring Semester to tell my soon-to-be Graduating Seniors what companies are really doing with all the technology they have used hands-on in the Fall semester and Junior year. My Enterprise Performance Management class in the Spring is all about IT, IS, Software and Tools, but the emphasis is on the business aspect for how these tools make companies more profitable.

But with the Pandemic forcing me to self-isolate in quarantine at home I needed to re-imagine the course. Therefore, this year I have thrown a wide net to see who would be interested in recording a lecture for my capstone Enterprise Performance Management class. My network has come through with a marvelous set of 30 Professors for the Day! From 8 different countries we have also gone International, which would never happen in normal times, so we are making lemonade out of the pandemic lemons while having fun too!

This week Jason Forest from NYC & McKinsey & Co., a major consulting company, and I have created a special Professor for the Day recording covering the work of WEB Dubois, a special Black History Month Edition Lecture. Jason will again virtually appear from NYC in our WeBeX classroom at 11:30 AM to Noon Monday Feb 15th for a live Q/A session. I am happy to beam virtually into your classroom this month and discuss this bit of Georgia & Analytics/DataViz History with your class, on a Tuesday or Thursday if it fits my teaching schedule. It really is fascinating, continue to read more.

One of the most powerful examples of data visualization was made 118 years ago by an all-black team led by W.E.B. Du Bois only 37 years after the end of Slavery in the United States.

While Du Bois’ legacy is cemented in American history, his data visualizations remain relatively unknown. I’m passionate about Du Bois’ story and there is a series of articles through the lens of a UX Designer working in data visualization to read for more information. My hope is that more academics, designers, and data visualization specialists will explore this work further in order to place the work into the proper historical significance it deserves.

The word “Negro” will appear frequently in this research series. It’s not a word I take lightly.
It is the term Du Bois references throughout this phase of his career and I think it’s best to honor and contextualize his use of language for this article.

“The Exhibit of American Negroes” at the Exposition Universelle of 1900 in Paris was created by activist and sociologist W. E. B. Du Bois, in collaboration with educator and social leader Booker T Washington, prominent black lawyer Thomas J. Calloway and students from historically black college Atlanta University.

In his remarkable 1968 Autobiography, Du Bois at the age of 90 recounts a lecture from a lifetime earlier in 1897. “The American Negro deserves study for the great end of advancing the cause of science in general. No such opportunity to watch and measure the history and development of a great race of men ever presented itself to the scholars of a modern nation. If they miss this opportunity — if they do the work in a slipshod, unsystematic manner — if they dally with the truth to humor the whims of the day, they do far more than hurt the good name of scientific truth the world over, they voluntarily decrease human knowledge…”

Du Bois describes the exhibition as “Thirty-two charts, 500 photographs, and numerous maps and plans form the basis of this exhibit. The charts are in two sets, one illustrating conditions in the entire United States and the other conditions in the typical State of Georgia”. The data visualizations in “The Exhibit of American Negroes” is therefore split into 2 sections: “A Series of Statistical Charts Illustrating the Condition of the Descendants of Former African Slaves Now in Residence in the United States of America” which focuses on the national view of the data, and a companion work done the same year called “The Georgia Negro”.

In the article “The American Negro at Paris” he writes: “It was a good idea to supplement these very general figures with a minute social study in a typical Southern State. It would hardly be suggested, in the light of recent history, that conditions in the State of Georgia are such as to give a rose-colored picture of the Negro; and yet Georgia, having the largest Negro population, is an excellent field of study.”

Du Bois continues in his Autobiography: “I wanted to set down its aim and method in some outstanding way which would bring my work to the thinking world. The great World’s Fair at Paris was being planned and I thought I might put my findings into plans, charts and figures, so one might see what we were trying to accomplish.”

The resulting exhibition was more than just a scientific report. It was a targeted attempt to sway the world’s elite to acknowledge the American Negro in an effort to influence cultural change in the USA from abroad. The charts in the exhibition are arranged to tell a story with data that presents a complex picture of a people, their struggle and perseverance despite more than a century of abject slavery.

There is much more in this tale to tell. Contact me for a Live Class Discussion or ask me and I can provide more links from Jason Forest’s series of articles (excerpted above) we discuss this week in my recorded virtual lecture on WEB DuBois! Kevin.Elder@GCSU.EDU

The first Inspire! Leadership Forum of 2021 will highlight Jane Kim Coloseus, executive director of Her Term. The forum will take place virtually from 5:30pm to 6:30pm on Monday, February 8th.

Named the Young Ambassador of the Month by WCAPS in May of 2020, Jane Coloseus works to uplift women’s voices in traditionally male-dominant industries. Coloseus’ passion for women’s leadership ignited when she worked for the United Nations as a Gender Equality Specialist in the nuclear sector. Since then, she has been dedicated to ensuring gender equality in all sectors of society.

Her Term was built on the belief that increased female leadership in state governmental positions is necessary for a future of progress. The organization is committed to encouraging women to run for public office in Georgia. In the past 3 years, Her Term has supported campaigns of over 25 elected candidates in Georgia.

Julie Bowland Biography

Julie Bowland is a Valdosta, Georgia-based artist who is a Professor in the Department of Art & Design at Valdosta State University, and Director of the Dedo Maranville Fine Arts Gallery. As a landscape painter, she applies oil paint in a thick, painterly impasto, working directly from the wild landscape. Painting in bold, expressive color, she captures both a sense of place and an immediate, felt, energy. Expanding her plein air work onto the water, she paints from a canoe and kayak and interprets remote, watery places in oil, pastel, watercolor, and mixed media. Formally a longtime Tallahassee resident, she holds a BFA in painting from Florida State University and an MFA from Arizona State University.

Bowland’s work is included in private, public and corporate collections, including the Museum of Arts and Sciences in Daytona Beach; the City of Tallahassee Permanent Collection; Barnett Bank in Jacksonville; First South Bank in Tallahassee; Valdosta State University; and Florida State College at Jacksonville. She has had recent solo exhibitions at the Annette Howell Turner Center for the Arts in Valdosta; the Albany, Georgia Arts Council; the Fitzgerald, Georgia Arts Council; Thomas University in Thomasville Georgia; the University of Mobile in Alabama; the Buchanan Museum of Fine Arts in Michigan; and she has exhibited at the Kobro Gallery, Strzeminiski Academy of Fine Arts, Lodz, Poland. Bowland has presented plein air painting workshops for high school students, college students, and adult artists in Florida, Georgia and Utah. She is represented by Venvi Art Gallery in Tallahassee and Ladies’ Room Contemporary Art in Los Angeles.

Anonymous Was a Woman: Faculty Voice Recital - Jennifer Piazza-Pick, soprano

Music, Department of: Friday February 12, 2021

Monday, Feb. 22 An online evening of music, “Anonymous Was a Woman,” will be at 7:30 p.m. This faculty recital showcases music from women composers of Italian, French, German and English descent. Women composers have long been left out of standard repertoire and appear less in programming. One piece, “Sentiment” by Julianna Hall, is a monodrama for unaccompanied soprano. Prior to the recital, Hall will give a talk for voice and composition students about her compositional techniques. Performing faculty members are soprano Jennifer Piazza-Pick and pianist Lev Ryabinin. Please follow us on facebook.com/GCMusicDepartment to view this live-steamed concert. A $5 donation is encouraged. Online donations can be made at alumni.gcsu.edu/music. Mail-in donations for music scholarships can be made out to GCSU Foundations, Inc. and sent to GC Music Department, CBX 66, Milledgeville, GA 31061. All proceeds benefit music scholarships or the GC Department of Music through GCSU Foundation, Inc. For more information, please email music@gcsu.edu or call 478-445-8289.

Virtual Leadership Mixer and Open House This Week

Leadership Programs : Monday February 15, 2021

The Office of Leadership Programs will host Georgia College’s annual Leadership Mixer on Tuesday, February 16th at 5:30 p.m. on Zoom.

The Leadership Mixer is a university-wide networking event to introduce students to GC’s leadership programs. Through interactive sessions, conversation, and networking, students can learn more about Georgia College’s leadership programs, including both the Leadership Certificate and Georgia Education Mentorship (GEM) Programs, and a broad range of opportunities to develop and practice their leadership. This year’s event will be hosted virtually over Zoom. All students are invited to attend.

“We encourage all GC students to join us,” says Ashley Copeland, assistant director of leadership programs. “We want to hear from students interested in the world around them—students who are curious, civic-minded, and motivated.”

Additionally, GC Leadership Programs will host an Open House on Thursday, February 18th from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. All students are invited to drop in at the Carl Vinson House, located at 421 West Montgomery Street, to learn about opportunities.

Drop-in Zoom sessions are also available daily from 3:00 to 3:45 p.m. for students who are interested in learning more about Georgia College’s leadership programs.

Applications are currently open for Georgia College’s Leadership Certificate Program and the GEM Program. The deadline to apply for both programs is March 1st.

To register for the Leadership Mixer or to join a drop-in information session, please visit www.gcsu.edu/leadership/students.

Research Roundup Held Virtually Through Gather Town

WHEN: March 16, 2021 (6:00 p.m. - 8:00 p.m.)

WHO SHOULD PARTICIPATE: Faculty interested in researching with undergraduate students AND Students interested in learning about mentored research opportunities

This is the 4th Research Roundup brought to you by the GC Student Research Circle. It is place where faculty and students meet to discuss research interest. Faculty and students who have participated in the past found it fun and informative.

The event follows the logistics of a "speed dating" format. Faculty will be stationed in separate locations in Gather Town. Everyone will have an avatar. Once a student's avatar move close to the faculty member's avatar both will go on live video to speak to each other about research interest and opportunities. There will be up to four minutes at each faculty station in Round #1 and then students will rotate to the next faculty member. Once the first round is completed, students will be free to return to any faculty member's station for which they want more information.

Please sign up here to participate.

Gather Town is a video-calling space that lets multiple people hold separate conversations in parallel, walking in and out of those conversations just as easily as they would in real life.

The AAC & Times Talk present A More Perfect Campus: What is Good Trouble?

Academic Advising Center : Monday February 15, 2021

The Academic Advising Center would like to thank our Times Talk colleagues for the opportunity to host this week's session, entitled A More Perfect Campus: What is Good Trouble? Articles, background and co-facilitators are included below, along with our initial and parting questions. Please join us on Wednesday at Noon!

The Academic Advising Center

advising@gcsu.edu

478-445-2361

Title/Topic: A More Perfect Campus: What is Good Trouble?

National Background: The University of Wisconsin was wanting to show a united campus, inclusive of all student populations. In creating a video for Homecoming, a diverse group of campus organizations were asked to participate; however, the final product only showcased the majority population. This created a rift with the campus population as the marginalized population of students felt as if the university was not welcoming and they did not belong. In an attempt to correct the oversight, another video was created with students of marginalized populations. Instead of moving towards reconciliation and acceptance, this further divided the campus community.

Articles to Consider/Prepare/Review:

Closer to Home: On the other spectrum, the University of Georgia is still looking to make changes since desegregating sixty years. Charlayne Hunter-Gault talks of her experiences then and what still needs to happen now for the university and all of higher education to continue making strides towards a more perfect campus.

Who you will see on Wednesday includes (though is not limited to) our Co-facilitators: Michelle Beck, O'Ryan Carter, Dr. Michelle Johnson, Wanda Johnson, Debi Lastinger, Nikki Simpson, and Mark Skelton (plus others!)
Initial Questions:

1. What were your thoughts as you read these articles?
2. Was the situation handled correctly at U of Wyoming?
3. In the words of Charlayne Hunter-Gault, "And why is there no embrace of respecting differences of opinion?"

Parting Question: Change is not easy. How prepared are you to step out of your comfort zone to bring awareness to issues of concern and foster changes that need to happen?

GIVE Center's Training Tuesday: Grant Writing Part 2

The GIVE Center: Thursday February 18, 2021

On Tuesday February 23 @6:30, the GIVE Center will hold their second installment of their Training Tuesday on Grant Writing! The training will be held via zoom and the link will be sent when you RSVP:

In this session, two guest speakers, Amy Hall and Sarah Buckley will be providing a personalized introduction into grant writing and the opportunity for you to experience the grant writing process first hand!

Amy Hall graduated from GCSU in 2006 with a degree in Mass Communication and a certificate in Nonprofit Management and has worked in various roles at philanthropic organizations for the past 13 years. Currently, Amy is a Charitable Giving Associate at the Georgia Power Company. In this role, she is responsible for processing and managing grant requests for the Georgia Power Foundation and Corporate Giving initiatives and other special projects related to Georgia Power Company’s philanthropic support throughout Georgia and the Southeast. Prior to joining the Charitable Giving Department at Georgia Power in 2017, Amy served as the Grants Manager for the Foundation for a Healthy High Point in High Point, North Carolina and Distance Learning Coordinator at Healthcare Georgia Foundation in Atlanta, Georgia.

Sarah Buckley graduated from GCSU in 2007 with a degree in Mass Communication, and later completed her Master of Public Administration degree at UGA. Since then, she has worked in the public and nonprofit setting, with the last 10 years of her career focused on fundraising. Sarah currently serves as the Associate Director of Development for Georgia Humanities, where she is responsible for establishing all aspects of fundraising for the organization, including grant writing and reporting. Most recently prior to this role, Sarah worked at Skyland Trail, a mental health nonprofit, and Coxe Curry & Associates, a fundraising consulting firm in Atlanta. Here, she worked with a wide variety of nonprofits—from small private schools to the Atlanta BeltLine and plenty in between.

Women's Leadership Conference. Leading Change: Passion to Action

Leadership Programs : Wednesday February 24, 2021

Coinciding with Women’s History Month, this conference is designed to give participants the opportunity to explore their passions for leadership. What draws them in? What drives them to make a difference? And then, how can they leverage that passion and turn it into action? The conference incorporates students, staff, alumni, faculty, and community members as speakers and presenters in order to give our participants access to a wide variety of experiences and knowledge. The content engages our participants in critical thought around their role as a leader to create meaningful change.

Register online at: gcsu.edu/womensleadership

This year’s conference will look different. It will be 100% virtual but all presenters will host their workshops and presentations live online! We will be utilizing and testing new technologies. We are excited about the prospects of being able to hold a more inclusive conference as presenters and attendees will not be limited to the Milledgeville area.

A collaboration among the Women's Center, Leadership Programs, Alumni Association, and J. Whitney Bunting College of Business.

Putting It All into Action with a Trip to Belize

March 19, 2:30 p.m.

Drs. Kevin Hunt and Liz Speelman will explore how one program incorporated several components of GC Journeys with a trip to Belize. They will share the steps taken to set up and conduct a study abroad program that incorporated community-based engaged learning, undergraduate research, and study-abroad techniques in a short, two-week visit to the country of Belize. The results were impactful for the community and shared a life-changing new land with students.

Registrants will be sent the link to attend the webinar.

Quality Matters (QM) Virtual Training

Center for Teaching & Learning : Friday February 26, 2021

GC is now offering Quality Matters (QM) training! Upon completing the QM training, you will receive a completion certificate from Quality Matters, verifying your readiness to develop a quality online course.

Quality Matters is the global organization leading quality assurance in online and innovative digital teaching and learning environments. It provides a scalable quality assurance system for online and blended learning used within and across organizations. QM designed the professional development to help educators deliver the promise of quality online learning opportunities to every level of learning.

We have five spaces left - register below, and invite a colleague! This is a Statewide Systems training and anyone in the University System of Georgia (USG) can attend.

Here’s the information to register through QM:

1. Login to your MyQM portal.
2. Navigate to select the "Workshop - Register" menu.
3. Select the "Dedicated Training" link.
4. Locate the correct session, "Independent Applying the QM Rubric - Virtual (APPQMR) : (Statewide Systems)" for March 8, 2021, facilitated by Simeco Vinson.
5. Select the "Register" link and follow the steps to register for the session.
