Guest art critic to give public lecture on Colombian Art

Art, Department of : Tuesday February 1, 2022

The Georgia College Department of Art is hosting a public lecture Feb. 17 at 5 p.m. in Arts and Sciences, room 272. Guest art critic and curator Carolina Ponce De León will talk about "Contemporary Colombian Art in the Context of Armed Conflict: An Overview."

This topic focuses on visual art created in Colombia during its fifty-year armed conflict, which cost the country over 220,000 lives and displaced nearly 7 million people. Ponce de León's lecture will also address aesthetic approaches and strategies used by Colombian artists to address causes of the conflict, its violence and toll of human suffering.

Her experience will provide a “detailed, first-hand perspective on the role and contributions of art in a context of war,” said Art History Professor Ruben Yepes.

A new faculty member at Georgia College, Yepes is also from Colombia. His teaching and research focus on Colombian and Latin American Art.

“I couldn’t be more thrilled about her visit,” Yepes said. “Through her work as a curator and gallery director both in Colombia and the U.S., Carolina has been key in positioning a new generation of Colombian artists, both nationally and internationally.”

Ponce de León lives and works in Bogotá, Colombia. Among other positions, she's been director of arts at Banco de la República in Bogotá; curator at the Museo del Barrio in New York; and director of Galería de la Raza in San Francisco. Ponce de León is author of several books. Her articles have been published in anthologies, catalogues and specialized journals in the United States, Europe and Latin America.

This event is free and open to the public. For more information, please contact Yepes at ruben.yepes@gcsu.edu.

Voices of Joy Presents, PRAISE BREAK!: Bible Study and Worship

Georgia College Voices of Joy Gospel Choir is excited to announce that we are hosting praise, worship, and bible study for our campus community! Our goal is to provide a place of love and fellowship through free worship for those who are searching for a Christian community, especially for our brothers and sisters of color! Come and hear the popular and worshipful gospel and contemporary Christian music from our very own live worship team as you enter the space. You will be treated to refreshments while engaging in open, interactive bible discussions in a laid-back, and free-flowing environment with no judgment!

The first service is Monday, February 7th, 2022 at Porter Hall, Room 304; at 7:30 PM and will be held every 1st and 3rd Monday of each month. Spread the word so that no one misses out on the amazing things in store for the organization!

Take a break from the stress and worries of life, gather your friends to praise God and talk about JESUS!

The John H. Lounsbury College of Education continues their Social Justice Dialogue Series this semester with a keynote lecture from Rev. France Davis, pastor emeritus of the Salt Lake City’s Calvary Baptist Church and acclaimed civil rights activist. Rev. Davis’s lecture will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 23 at 5 p.m. Rev. Davis’s lecture will focus on his civil rights engagement in Georgia to current socio-political events.

A native of Georgia, Davis arrived in Salt Lake City in 1972 to teach and to attend graduate school at the University of Utah. He was appointed instructor in Communication and in Ethnic Studies, earning a distinguished teacher award from the university. Davis retired as an adjunct associate professor in 2014.

During the 1960s, Davis participated in the Civil Rights Movement and marched in Selma, Alabama to Montgomery, Alabama promoting voting rights for African Americans. At the onset of the Civil Rights Movement, he met Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and received his spiritual calling into ministry as a young man. In 1972, Davis was confronted by his minority status when he was removed from the LDS Church-owned Brigham Young University campus for wearing an afro. As a political activist, Davis was also instrumental in declaring Martin Luther King Jr. Day as an official holiday, an achievement for which his church office was riddled with gun shots. He furthered his education by earning his M.M. degree in ministry from Northwest Nazareth University in Nampa, Idaho in 1994.

Davis has published several books, including a memoir, with co-author Nayra Atiya, entitled, “France Davis: An American Story Told.”

Among numerous awards and recognitions, he was given an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters from the University of Utah in 1993, the Salt Lake Community College in 1997, Dixie State College in 2002, an official citation from the Utah House of Representatives, in recognition of his outstanding service to Utah in 2006. He also received the FBI Director’s Community Leadership Award, given to him at the FBI Headquarters in Washington, DC in 2014.

For more information and to receive the Zoom event link, please contact Dr. Paulette Cross, COE Diversity Committee Member, at 478-445-8628.
Travel Regulations Update

Finance & Administration : Thursday February 3, 2022

The State of Georgia announced several changes to the state travel policy effective 2/1/2022. Most noticeable is the change in per diem rates in Georgia from high/low cost areas to a blanket rate of $50 per day ($13 breakfast, $14 lunch, and $23 dinner) for travel with an overnight stay. However, the 25% travel day reduction will be in effect. We will have two trainings to go over this and other changes to policy at 2:00 in the Pat Peterson Museum Room on Tuesday, February 15 and Wednesday, February 23.

President Cathy Cox will deliver her State of the University Address Friday, February 4th at 2:00 p.m. in Russell Auditorium. Immediately following the State of the University Address, faculty and staff will be honored for their years of service to Georgia College during our annual Service Recognition Ceremony.

Both events will also be live-streamed if you are unable to attend in person. The live stream will be available at https://www.gcsu.edu/president. Please note that you may have to refresh your browser if you get to the webpage before the stream is turned on.

Following the Service Recognition Ceremony, there will be a reception on the Russell lawn.
The Women's Center & LGBTQ+ Programs and the Cultural Center invite you to attend Black In White: Black Experiences at PWIs, a virtual conversational panel at 4 p.m. on February 8th, where black students/faculty/staff will come together to bring attention to and address the disparities, experiences and challenges that are faced by black people attending and working at predominantly white institutions. In addition to this panel and discussion, we hope to also create a safe space for others to speak up and share with people who understand their similar struggles. Please RSVP for this event here: https://bit.ly/blackinwhite22
Teach English Abroad After Graduation - Info Session Feb. 23 at 3 PM

International Education Center: Thursday February 3, 2022

Teaching abroad is an exciting and rewarding experience! Recent GC graduates have taught English in Japan, Indonesia, England, France, Kuwait, Korea and many other locations. Join GC Study Abroad Advisor Jarris Lanham, who taught abroad in Belarus for a semester while a university student and in Japan for four years after graduation, for a discussion of opportunities that may benefit you. Positions to teach children, high school, college and adults exist around the world, and most only require a bachelor’s degree in any subject. Learn some international job searching tips so you find the ideal teaching position for you! Get paid to share your language and culture with others while exploring a new country! The Info Session will be on Wednesday, February 23 at 3 PM in WebEx.

If you are interested but cannot join Jarris at that time, please email her at jarris.lanham@gcsu.edu.

English Department welcomes Darugar Scholar in early March

English Department of: Friday February 4, 2022

Novelist Rabih Alameddine has been named the Darugar Distinguished Visiting Scholar for Georgia College’s Creative Writing program.

“The Georgia College community is lucky indeed to have Rabih Alameddine as the 2022 Dr. and Mrs. Barry Darugar Distinguished Visiting Scholar,” said Dr. Kerry Neville, coordinator of the Master of Fine Arts and undergraduate creative writing programs.

“He’s been described as a ‘master of the intimate and the global,’ and certainly his global perspective and the international scope of his work offers us a chance to broaden our own perspectives and sphere of care and concern,” she said.

Born in Amman, Jordan, and raised in Kuwait and Lebanon, Alameddine received his education in the United States and England. His novels include “The Angel of History,” “An Unnecessary Woman,” “The Hakawati,” ”I, the Divine” and “Koolaid.” Alameddine also penned a story collection called “The Perv.”

His latest novel, “The Wrong End of the Telescope,” is about an Arab American transwoman among Syrian refugees in Greece. The Economist noted: “His books offer a compelling, often jarring, blend of cynicism and hope. They urge readers to contemplate the humanity and suffering of others rather than turn their faces away.”

Other acclamations include the New York Times Book Review: "Spectacular ... Alameddine’s irreverent prose evokes the old master storytellers from my own Middle Eastern home, their observations toothy and full of wit, returning always to human absurdity.”

At Georgia College, Alameddine will offer a public talk, formal reading and craft talk. He’ll visit creative writing classes and offer one-on-one manuscript consultations with students.

- Wednesday, March 2 Alameddine’s public talk, "Concerning the Political in Art," will be 6:30 to 7:45 p.m. with a question-and-answer session in the A&S Auditorium and on YouTube.
- Thursday, March 3 His craft talk with questions and answers will be 12:30 to 1:15 p.m. in Arts and Sciences room 275.
- Also, on March 3 A public reading with questions and answers will be 6:30 to 7:45 p.m. in A&S Auditorium and on YouTube.

Alameddine is a painter, as well, with solo gallery exhibitions in cities throughout the United States, Europe and Middle East. He’s lectured at numerous universities including M.I.T. and the American University of Beirut in Lebanon.

His books have been translated into more than 20 languages, and his writing has appeared in the "New Yorker," the “New York Times,” the "Guardian" and other publications.

Among other honors, Alameddine received the Guggenheim Foundation fellowship in 2002. He divides his time between San Francisco and Beirut. Currently, he is the University of Virginia’s Kapnick Foundation Writer-in-Residence.

Diversity 360 Event: Establishing & Maintaining Mentally Healthy Workplace Environments

The Office of Inclusive Excellence will present our first virtual Diversity 360 event for Spring semester entitled "Establishing & Maintaining Mentally Healthy Workplace Environments," on Feb. 22 at 4 p.m. The Zoom link is https://tinyurl.com/2p86v6du. Dr. Steve Wilson, Director of GC Counseling Services, will be the facilitator.

As we continue to adapt to the new normal during the pandemic, more people are returning or have returned to work. However, this new normal has seen an increase of stress and anxiety. Even before the pandemic, 1 in 5 adults struggled with mental health issues—and that number is only rising. Furthermore, when workers struggle with mental health conditions, the signs are not always apparent, and even when a condition is disclosed, there may be a stigma attached.

In this workshop, participants will learn:

- How managers and supervisors can support employees’ mental health
- How employees can talk about their mental health in the workplace
- The benefits of talking about and improving mental health at work
- How to work with others to make your workplace more mentally healthy for everyone
- Ways to reach out and support a colleague in distress

Dinner with Twelve Strangers: A New Building Community Initiative from OIE for Spring Semester

Inclusive Excellence, Office of: Monday February 7, 2022

The Office of Inclusive Excellence is pleased to announce “Dinner With 12 Strangers”, a new “building community” event at Georgia College for spring semester.

During this semester there will be two Dinners that will include a delicious meal, fun ice-breakers, personal introductions, and an engaging conversation about how we can make Georgia College a more welcoming community for all.

Twelve selected individuals from all areas of campus will be invited to be one of the twelve strangers who meet for dinner. The Dinners will be hosted from 5:30pm to 7:00pm on two nights during the spring semester: March 10 and April 12, both will take place on Atkinson Porch.

Our fall semester hosting the Dinner was a great success! If you are interested in being a guest at one of the two Dinners this spring, please complete and submit the form, https://bit.ly/OIEdinner22 by February 25, 2022.

Dinner guests will be selected by the Office of Inclusive Excellence and notified at least a week before the dinner is scheduled. Thank you for participating in this exciting new building community program.

Join the Women's Center & LGBTQ+ Programs for a discussion of the book “The Good Body” by Eve Ensler, on Wednesday, February 16 and Wednesday, February 23 from 5:30-6:30. This event is centered around discussing and developing an understanding of how our self-perceptions are influenced by things like generational body trauma, fatphobia, diet culture, and more.

“The Good Body” Book club will meet on two separate occasions. We ask that everyone attending already has read the book...don't worry it's a short read! There are nine copies available at the Women's Center for pick up and there is one copy at the GC library. During our first meeting, we will initiate several activities related to the book and send you home with some takeaways to reflect on. During the second meeting, we will discuss key takeaways restorative justice style!! While it is not necessary to attend both meetings, we think it would be the most beneficial. If you're interested, please fill out this form:

CTL Workshop - "Small" Approaches to Finding Motivation and Inspiration in the Classroom

Center for Teaching & Learning : Tuesday February 8, 2022

Since the COVID-19 pandemic disrupted teaching and learning in Spring 2020, it has felt like more of a struggle to motivate students to learn—both in-person and in virtual environments. It has also felt challenging for us, as teachers, to find the motivation to jump into our classrooms with the same enthusiasm. In the new 2021 edition of Small Teaching, Jim Lang speaks about motivation and the power of emotion in terms of inspiring teachers and learners: "Emotions like isolation and anxiety can interfere with student learning, but emotions can also play a positive role in the work we do. We should think not just about how to drive out negative emotions, but also how we engage the positive emotions that support learning: curiosity, wonder, purpose, and even joy."

Join GCSU faculty from the Chancellor’s Learning Scholar's program to discuss "small" steps we can all take to inspire and motivate our students and ourselves. This interdisciplinary panel of faculty will include Dr. Kelley Ditzel (Public Administration), Dr. Stephanie Jett (Psychology), Dr. Joy Bracewell (Director of the Writing Center), and Dr. Stefanie Sevcik (English). Participants will hear insights from Jim Lang’s new edition of Small Teaching as well as discuss examples from their own classroom experiences.

This virtual workshop will be held at 10 am on March 3. The meeting link will be sent out to registrants before the workshop.

Register for "Small" Approaches to Finding Motivation and Inspiration in the Classroom!

The Georgia College Retiree Association Wants to Take You Out to the (Basket)ball Game

Retiree Association: Tuesday February 8, 2022

On Saturday, February 12, 2022 there will be a Women’s game at 1:30, followed by a men’s game at 3:30. It will be a great chance to see our winning Bobcats face Georgia Southwestern.

The Bobcat Women have won two straight home games. The men’s team, coached by Mark Gainous, are 8-3 in the Peach Belt Conference.

Our afternoon at the Centennial Center will include snacks, fine games, and lots of GC swag. During the break between games, Members of GCRA will present the game ball to coach Gainous. And during the games, the names of all retirees will be recognized.

Please RSVP to this outing by emailing trublumiller@gmail.com. The reply is needed to get a head count for snacks and seating!

Your board members of GCRA look forward to seeing you Saturday, February 12!

Alex Gregory Leader in Residence to Speak in Usery Forum on Leadership

Leadership Programs : Tuesday February 8, 2022

Dr. Genie Snyder Chamberlin ’82 to speak next week

On Monday, February 14th, at 5 p.m, Georgia College Leadership Programs will host Dr. Genie Snyder Chamberlin ’82, Alex Gregory Leader in Residence, in the Usery Forum on Leadership.

Dr. Genie Snyder Chamberlin is founder and principal of the Genieus Team and of SnyderRemarks, Inc. She has more than twenty years’ experience as an executive coach and consultant, across the United States and around the world. She is a specialist in strategic customer service, organizational change management, and executive leadership. At Georgia College, she serves as Alex Gregory Leader in Residence, teaching and advising students and working collaboratively with faculty and staff to advance GC’s mission to create the next generation of Georgia’s leaders.

“We are delighted that Genie will speak in our Usery Forum on Leadership,” says Dr. Harold Mock, director of leadership programs. “Genie is a nationally sought-after speaker and is an extraordinary teacher and mentor. I’m so glad that the members of our Georgia College community will get to learn from her and visit with her.”

The forum will be hosted by Georgia College Leadership Programs, in collaboration with the Council of Public Liberal Arts Colleges.

The event is free and open to the public and will be held in Peabody Auditorium in Milledgeville. Guests may learn more and register online.

The Usery Forum on Leadership is part of the Inspire! Forum series and is supported by a generous gift from the Kim Usery Foundation. The goal of the series, names for former U.S. Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery, Jr., is to focus on leadership that:

- Brings people together, bridging divides and spanning boundaries
- Finds value in diverse new perspectives, and
- Showcases innovations in leadership and service, particularly related to creating mutual benefit in civic life.

About Georgia College Leadership Programs

Georgia College's Office of Leadership Programs provides teaching, research, and public service related to leadership, citizenship, democracy, and public affairs. With the support of a distinguished faculty and practitioners, we educate the next generation of Georgia’s leaders for the public good. Our programs bring together scholars and students, as well as business leaders, non-profit executives, journalists, and public officials, and offer a trusted forum on citizen-leadership and pressing issues of the day.

CTL Workshop - Design for Transformative Learning & Essential Learning Outcomes

Center for Teaching & Learning: Monday February 14, 2022

To provide a better understanding of the GC Journeys initiative and help you decide how to incorporate transformative experiences and essential skills into your courses or program, we designed a pair of workshops, Transformative Experiences and Essential Learning Outcomes, both of which have been shown to increase student retention and student engagement rates.

GC Journeys answers several questions: How can faculty and staff make their work more joyful, meaningful, and purposeful? How do we build more meaningful relationships with our students? How do we distinguish our curriculum in a system that doesn't provide much opportunity for creating something liberal-arts-specific? Further answers to these questions can be found in the pair of workshops. Nearly two-thirds of GC faculty have completed the pair of GC Journeys workshops, and our goal is to get to as close to 100% completion as possible!

These highly interactive workshops filled with engagement will provide you with ways to help make the classes and the programs you teach life-changing for students and more meaningful for you.

Please join Drs. Cynthia Alby and Simeco Vinson on April 19th from 3-5 pm on Zoom and find out why the GC Journeys program is already getting nationwide attention. We especially encourage new faculty to attend to better understand GC Journeys and how it applies to you!

Register for Design for Transformative Learning & Essential Learning Outcomes! The Zoom link will be emailed to registrants on the morning of the session.

While many digital scholarship tools and computational methods can play an important role in digital humanities research at all stages, it's usually the final output that is the most visible element of these projects. This talk will explore exhibits built using the Omeka platform with a particular focus on incorporating the Neatline plugin to create interactive maps. Continuing with maps, we will look at some possibilities for including these in projects built using the Scalar platform. We will also talk more generally about getting started with digital humanities projects and planning for sustainability.

Wouldn't you like to improve your online courses' quality and receive certification that you have completed the process for developing quality online courses? If so, the Center for Teaching and Learning offers you the opportunity to register for Quality Matters (QM) training. Upon completing the QM training, you will receive a certificate from Quality Matters, verifying your readiness to develop a quality online course.

Nationally recognized, Quality Matters is the global organization leading quality assurance in online and innovative digital teaching and learning environments. It provides a scalable quality assurance system for online and blended learning used within and across organizations. QM designed the professional development to help educators deliver the promise of quality online learning opportunities to every level of learning.

You must have a GC or USG Quality Matters account to register for this workshop. If you haven't already, you can create a QM account by visiting https://www.qmprogram.org/myqm/ and selecting "No, I am new here," which will allow you to register for this workshop and connect you with other QM workshops and resources. Once you have created an account, you can find and register for this offering in your QM portal by doing the following:

1. Login to your MyQM portal at https://www.qmprogram.org/myqm
2. Navigate to select the "Workshop - Register" menu
3. Select the "Dedicated Training" link
4. Locate the correct session, "Independent Applying the QM Rubric - Virtual (APPQMR) : (Statewide Systems) After April 4, 2022."
5. Select the "Register" link and follow the steps to register for the session.

I hope you will take advantage of this certification opportunity and join us on April 15th from 9 am to 5 pm. This workshop is open to the entire USG system statewide, and the seats are capped at 30, so don't delay and miss this opportunity offered by CTL only once each semester!
Interested in learning more about organizations of the National Pan-Hellenic Council? Then join us this afternoon (2/15) at 5:00 pm in Blackbridge Hall. Members from each NPHC organization will be on hand to greet you and answer questions you may have about the respective organizations. Hope to see you there!

African American Read-in

Russell Library invites you to participate in the annual African American Read-in on Monday, February 21, 2022, from 10am to 3pm in the Museum Education Room 211 (Heritage Hall) of the library. The African American Read-in is a Black History Month event sponsored by the Black Caucus of the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE). The main purpose of the read-in is to make “the celebration of African American literacy a traditional part of Black History Month activities.”

Here at GC we have envisioned something of an “open mic” style in which participants will read/perform/recite a 5-7 minute selection by their favorite author. Selections may include poetry, dramatic monologues, fiction, or creative non-fiction.

This event will be free and open to the public. We hope you will join us in this celebration of literature and literacy in the African American community.

The Georgia College English Department Film Series presents: THURSDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES!

When: Thursday, February 17, 2022
Where: Arts & Sciences Room 370
Time: 7 p.m.

NOW SHOWING:

Stanley Kubrick’s: DR. STRANGELOVE

Or: How I learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb

Starring Peter Sellers— the movie focuses on the actions of a rogue U.S. officer who believes that communists are threatening the "precious bodily fluids" of Americans. Without authorization, he issues orders to U.S. bombers to launch atomic attacks against the Soviet Union. When it becomes evident that some of the bombers may actually drop their atomic payloads, American President Merkin Muffley frantically calls his Soviet counterpart. The Russian leader informs Muffley that an atomic attack on the Soviet Union will automatically unleash the terrible "doomsday machine," which will snuff out all life on the planet. Muffley's chief foreign policy advisor, Dr. Strangelove, reassures the president and chief officials that all is not lost: they can, he posits, survive even the doomsday machine by retreating to deep mineshafts.

See you at the movies!

Raising Her Voice: An Evening of Music by Women Composers

Music, Department of: Tuesday February 15, 2022

Saturday, March 5- Two of Georgia College’s choral ensembles, Women’s Ensemble and Max Noah Singers, will present an evening of music by women composers at 7:30 p.m. in Magnolia Ballroom at the Student Activity Center. The concert will also be live-streamed at facebook.com/GCMusicDepartment. "Raising Her Voice" features compositions that span almost 400 years and includes pieces by well-known female composers such as Fanny Hensel and Clara Schumann. The choirs will also perform music by other lesser-known composers, such as Undine Smith Moore, the "Dean of Black Women Composers," and Rosephanye Powell, Auburn University Professor of Voice and winner of a "Living Legend Award" presented by California State University African Diaspora Sacred Music Festival in Los Angeles. The choirs and solo singers will perform music by eight other women composers from countries such as Italy, Canada, America, and Germany. Vocal soloists include students Anna Ogletree, Riley Greer, Megan Ostrat, and Allison Crane in collaboration with Mary Mead, saxophone. Pianist Lev Ryabinin will collaborate with Jennifer Flory, mezzo-soprano, and flutist Laurie Peebles, as well as Youngmi Kim, soprano. Choral conductors include Dr. Dana Gorzelany-Mostak, Dr. Jennifer Flory, Megan Ostrat, Conner Garmon, and Kelley Monahan. The choirs will be joined by Dr. Lev Ryabinin and Dr. Hue Jang on piano. A $5 donation is encouraged. Online donations can be made at alumni.gcsu.edu/music. All proceeds benefit music scholarships or the GC Department of Music through GCSU Foundation, Inc. For more information, please email music@gcsu.edu or call 478-445-8289.

Do you want to brush the dust off of a general education course you have taught countless times to make it feel more impactful? Maybe you want to take your advanced seminar students out of the classroom and into the community? We will walk through the steps involved in taking a course you already teach and incorporating a high-impact service-learning experience for your students. We will also discuss examples of service-learning projects happening in courses across the campus and resources to turn your idea into a reality.

This virtual workshop will take place at 12 noon on April 15. The meeting link will be sent out to registrants on the day of the workshop.

Ride the Cyclone: The Musical

Theatre & Dance, Department of : Friday February 18, 2022

In this hilarious and outlandish musical, the lives of six teenagers from a Canadian chamber choir are cut short in a freak accident aboard a roller coaster. When they awake in limbo, a mechanical fortune teller invites each to tell a story to win a prize like no other - the chance to return to life. A funny, moving look at what makes a life well-lived! For mature audiences.

CTL Workshop - Engaging Students and Facilitating Interaction Using Technology

Center for Teaching & Learning : Friday February 18, 2022

Want to learn more about how to get your students engaged and critically thinking using technology in the classroom? Technology integration can deepen student learning, enhance critical thinking, encourage collaboration, and improve knowledge retention. Students can greatly benefit through the appropriate use of using technology as a learning tool. In this session, Jaclyn Queen and Simeco Vinson will explore different applications and software that can be integrated into teaching and learning experiences. This session will focus on some of the best applications and software to share content, promote student engagement, and enhance critical thinking and collaboration.

This virtual workshop will take place 3 pm on March 9. The meeting link will be sent out to registrants on the day of the workshop.

Guest Artist Recital: Shades of Life - Dr. Tana Field, mezzo-soprano

Music, Department of: Friday February 18, 2022

Monday, March 21 Guest artist and mezzo-soprano, Dr. Tana Field, will perform at Georgia College at 7:30 p.m. in Max Noah Recital Hall. Accompanied by faculty pianist Dr. Owen Lovell, Field’s performance will reflect human experience and hope, spanning all shades of mood from serious and melancholy to triumphant and humorous. Pieces range from 17th-century opera aria to 21st-century cabaret. They reflect a longing for freedom from isolation, the closure of old chapters and new beginnings. Dr. Field serves as professor of music at Murray State University in Kentucky. A $10 donation is encouraged. All proceeds benefit music scholarships or the GC Department of Music through GCSU Foundation, Inc. For more information, please email music@gcsu.edu or call 478-445-8289.

Interested in learning more about study abroad? Check out our upcoming Lunch & Learn sessions with HIPs Champions! Drs. Stephanie McClure and Jehan El-Jourbagy will share about the how and why of teaching in study abroad programs. This high-impact practice is truly transformative for both students and faculty. Students are often more interested in participating in study abroad programs when those programs include faculty from their own campus.

This virtual workshop will take place at 12 noon on April 22. The meeting link will be sent out to registrants on the day of the workshop.

If you have ever had a thought such as, "I got into this field to support students’ learning, not to be judge and jury," or "The validity of this whole grading thing seems remarkably shaky," then this workshop is for you. "Ungrading" and "grade minimizing" are processes where faculty members modify their grading systems to focus more on student learning. Decades of quality research suggest that grades actually do more harm than good (for example, Kohn, 1999). Join a panel of discussants as they share their experiences with ungrading, the issues they faced, and the unexpected rewards. They will provide practical tips for how you can try it yourself and prepare you to go all in or take it slowly. Participants will be provided with a variety of resources to support the process.

This virtual workshop will take place at 3:30 pm on March 24. The meeting link will be sent out to registrants on the day of the workshop.

Interested in learning more about capstones? Check out our upcoming Lunch & Learn sessions with HIPs Champions! In this session, Dr. Stephanie McClure will discuss the components of an effective capstone, consider the range of capstone options offered across campus, and share her experience working with colleagues in Sociology to develop an effective capstone experience, noting the challenges and rewards as well as the lessons learned. Most of the session will be dedicated to a discussion of how these lessons might be applied to other programs across campus.

This virtual workshop will take place at 12 noon on February 25. The meeting link will be sent out to registrants on the day of the workshop.

The Archives as Place-Based Learning: Remediating the Library Archives: Gaming with Twine

Digital Humanities Collaborative : Thursday February 24, 2022

This “show-and-tell” presentation March 30 at 11 a.m. hosted by the Digital Humanities Collaborative discusses the use of library archives as content for narrative-based video game design in multimodal composition and digital humanities coursework. Joshua Hussey will examine the use of Twine as a method to narrativize archival research with instructional learning goals in group work, games composition, and design. He will present case studies from classes at Georgia Tech and University of Georgia that used Twine in conjunction with content from the UGA Special Collections libraries. Using Twine, students embed archival documents in story lines to reflect both original provenance as well as new context, in order to display the richness of cultural artifacts. By crafting game narratives to curate cultural artifacts, data can be distributed in such a way through user discovery that meaningful information is produced.

Joshua Hussey (PhD, University of Georgia) is a Lecturer in the English Department at the University of Georgia where he teaches courses in first-year writing and literature.

This "show-and-tell" talk hosted by the Digital Humanities Collaborative will focus on the ways in which Scalar, the digital publishing platform, can be used to present research that is rich in multi-media content. Elliott Kuecker will review how to plan a project with attention toward collaborative labor, defined research purpose, and reasonable workflow. Further, he will perform a short demo of how the Scalar dashboard looks for authors and editors.

Elliott Kuecker is the Interim Head of DigiLab, the Digital Humanities Lab at the University of Georgia Libraries.

Transforming Memory and History with Digital Humanities

This "show-and-tell" presentation April 4 at 1 p.m. hosted by the Digital Humanities Collaborative will be delivered by Andrea Davis about a project she directs at Arkansas State University. "Memory and History: Transforming the Narrative of the Spanish Civil War and Francoist Dictatorship" is a collaborative Digital Humanities project that enhances access to the audiovisual testimonies of the Spanish Civil War Memory Project through the creation of 1) time-coded and searchable Spanish-language transcriptions, 2) English translations, 3) bilingual indexes that capture narrative structure and map natural language to concepts using the project’s dedicated subject thesaurus; and 4) multimodal scholarly entries based on the thesaurus’s hierarchy of terms that link out to the enhanced testimonies. Reflecting on the history of the project, this talk examines how scholars can draw on the Digital Humanities to navigate critical research decisions related to the adoption of tools, establishment of project guidelines, and creation of alternative scholarly communities and forms of communication.

Andrea Davis is Assistant Professor of History and Digital Humanities Director at Arkansas State University, where she researches the memory cultures and urban social movements of 20th-century Spain.

The Non-Profit, Government, & Helping Industries Career Fair will be held on March 10 from 12 p.m. - 4 p.m. in Peabody Auditorium. Students will meet representatives from non-profit organizations, government agencies and helping industries who are seeking interns and hiring for full-time positions. Opportunities are available for all majors.

Did you know that over 11 million people work in non-profit organizations, making it one of the largest industries in which people work? Non-profits are made up of education, health, social service, philanthropic, professional service, quasi-government, art, and cultural organizations. Over 20 million people work in federal, state, county, or city/local government. These industries make up so much of our workforce so you will not want to leave them out of your job search.

You never have a second chance to make a first impression, so business attire is required for this event. Resumes are also highly encouraged so that you can leave information about yourself with the representatives. Even if you have applied online it helps the recruiter know who you are when you follow up with them at a later date. We recommend that you bring at least 20 copies of your resume but if you plan to talk to every employer, bring more!

Georgia College’s first in-person spring musical since the start of COVID promises to be much like the pandemic—a topsy-turvy ruckus leaving audiences unsure what happens next.

But, unlike COVID, its turns and twists prove enjoyable with toe-tapping tunes and non-stop action. Narrated by a mechanical fortune teller, the play takes audiences on a rollercoaster of ups and downs, sharp turns and sudden changes.

“As soon as you think you’ve got things figured out, it twists a totally different way,” said Director Iona Holder. “A lot of people will want to see it more than once. The music is catchy and stays with you in the best way. People will look back and say, ‘That was really fun.’”

The musical runs four nights, March 2-5, with a 2 p.m. matinee Sunday, March 6, in Russell Auditorium.

The play is about members of a high school choir who visit an amusement park and lose their lives on the rollercoaster. They find themselves in a type of purgatory, retelling their lives or what they wish their lives had been like. It’s a game that gives the winner a new chance at life.

The high-energy production is filled with big dances and every kind of music genre from rap, hip hop and rock to Broadway classical and opera. The journey of self-exploration is filled with magical moments and opportunity to laugh and cry.

“It’s a beautiful story. It ends up being about how to stop and appreciate your life. The final message is heartwarming. I cry every single time we get to the last song,” Holder said.

“Ride the Cyclone” has seven main actors. To give more students a chance to act, the cast was upped to 14. Characters include choir members in school uniform and carnival "shadow people”—a snake charmer, strong man, bearded lady, tattooed man, clown and lion tamer.

About 50 students worked behind the scenes doing set construction, lighting, costumes, stage management and make-up. Alumnus David Connel designed the dance choreography.

Eric Griffis, interim chair of Theatre and Dance, chose “Ride the Cyclone” because it’s one of the few plays with streaming rights. Plays at Georgia College are chosen a year in advance. His committee wanted one that was flexible, in case the pandemic caused more shutdowns.

In the past two years, students took their craft online and used film to help produce shows. In-person productions resumed last fall. This will be Georgia College’s first in-person musical since 2020.

“It’s so full of unexpected things,” Griffis said. “You have no idea when you first watch it where it’s going to take you, and you leave with that warm feeling at the end.”

“Ride the Cyclone” is recommended for mature audiences. Performances are in Russell Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday, March 2 to 5, and 2 p.m. Sunday, March 6. Tickets are $15 for general admission; $10 for seniors, GC faculty, staff and non-GC students; and $5 for GC students.

MS OneDrive is a tool to collaborate and share files or content. Collaboration is an effective method that allows groups to work together to achieve shared goals by brainstorming ideas to develop more solutions – thus helping to reach comprehensive learning. With OneDrive, you can share files for group work, track students' progress through real-time monitoring, organize materials by creating assignment folders that can assist you when building content in GeorgiaVIEW, and keep your files updated throughout the learning process.

In this session, GC departments of Information Technology (IT) and the Center for Teaching and Learning (CTL) come together to present you with information and ideas to maximize the use of OneDrive in the classroom! Angie Moxley of IT and Simeco Vinson of CTL will explore how to log in to OneDrive using your Unify credentials, synchronize your devices to OneDrive, share files and folders, and practical classroom uses.

Dr. Magoulick’s - Book Talk & Signing Event

English, Department of: Monday February 28, 2022

The Department of English invites you to a book talk and signing event on March 7, for Dr. Mary Magoulick’s recent book, The Goddess Myth in Contemporary Literature and Popular Culture: A Feminist Critique, published by University Press of Mississippi in February 2022. Dr. Magoulick will analyze examples of film and television goddesses from the last 50 years, and she will give a brief overview of the rest of the book. There will be copies of the book available for purchase via the GC B&N bookstore with a book signing following the talk. There will be light refreshments as well and time for questions and answers.

Dr. Mary Magoulick, trained as a folklorist and literary scholar, has been a professor of English and Women’s and Gender Studies at Georgia College since 2000.

The talk will also be available via Zoom:

Please contact Mary Magoulick or The Department of English for the link.

Review of The Goddess Myth

"The Goddess Myth in Contemporary Literature and Popular Culture is the first book I have seen that ties together insights from feminist archaeology, folklore and mythology, literature, pop culture, and contemporary feminist theory in order to better understand the importance of goddess figures in both historical and contemporary modes of thought. Surveying existing scholarship on goddess culture (everything from what we know about prehistorical societies to current-day neo-pagan, Wiccan, and feminist spirituality practices) and adding a folkloristic lens to analyze literary and pop culture versions of goddess myths and tales, Mary J. Magoulick offers a nuanced and intriguing exploration of what goddess figures can and do mean in a variety of media."

- Jeana Jorgensen, folklorist and author
