This lecture examines Anuk Arudpragasm's debut novel The Story of a Brief Marriage as a lens for exploring subjectivity in instances of extreme social rupture. Dinesh, a refugee of the Sri Lankan civil war and the novel's protagonist, develops complex, shifting relationships with his environment, objects, other refugees, and himself—all of which culminate in a transformative experience centered on the body and one's own relation and conception of the self-formed by sensory experience and pleasure. This lecture explores what avenues of subjective experience and subject formation are available and attractive to those in instances of extreme social rupture and how relationality—between objects, subjects, and one's body and oneself—are crucial components to developing and exploring our understanding of this question.

All faculty and staff are invited to participate in a workshop titled, "Understanding Jews & Judaism: Jewish Student Identity, Inclusion and Antisemitism on Campus", presented by Elliot B. Karp, CEO of Hillels of Georgia, on Monday, May 23 from 1:30 - 3:30 PM in the Pat Peterson Education Room.

Is being Jewish a religion? A culture? A people? This workshop will explore the multifaceted dimensions of Jewish identity and basic tenets of Judaism, as well as the contemporary challenges and opportunities Jewish students face in exploring their Jewish identities on campus.

Hillels of Georgia is the statewide association serving more than 5,000 Jewish students on college campuses across the state. Hillel's mission is to ensure vibrant and dynamic Jewish life on campus for Jewish students by empowering them to develop their Jewish identities and pride through connections with one another, the Jewish community, Israel, and Jews around the world. Hillel is equally committed to working collaboratively with all partners to create a campus community that is diverse, inclusive, welcoming and respectful for all.

CTL Workshop: Developing Student Critical Thinking Through Higher-Order Questioning

Center for Teaching & Learning : Tuesday May 10, 2022

Research has shown that Higher-Order Questions (HOQs) require advanced cognitive demand and help students develop critical thinking skills. Higher-Order Questions (HOQs) are questions students cannot answer with a yes or no response or provide information quoted from a textbook. Instructors can use HOQs to help students build critical thinking skills. This session explores creating higher-order questions for students using AAC&U's Critical Thinking Rubric as an integral component. Session materials will help you develop a set of content-specific questions to use with your students to help them build questioning patterns that lead to thinking critically.

This workshop will be hosted virtually on June 1, at 12 noon. Registrants will be sent the link to attend on the morning of the workshop.

CTL Workshop - Technology Tools to Enhance Student Engagement

Center for Teaching & Learning: Tuesday May 10, 2022

Join us for a session on using technology tools to enhance student engagement. In this workshop, participants will be introduced to some of our favorite technology tools that can be used in the academic environment. Incorporating selective technological applications allows for students to engage in problem-solving activities, and discussions, and promotes higher-order thinking. Participants will learn about Powtoon, Canva, and BookCreator, and how both faculty and students can use these tools to promote learning.

This workshop will be hosted virtually on June 15 at 2 p.m. Registrants will be sent the link to attend on the morning of the workshop.

Join us for a session on Respondus LockDown Browser and Monitor, used to prevent cheating during an exam administered in GeorgiaVIEW. Participants will see Respondus from both the student and faculty perspective.

Respondus LockDown Browser® is a custom browser that locks down the testing environment within GeorgiaVIEW to prevent cheating during exams. LockDown Browser prevents access to other applications, including messaging and screen-sharing. Right-click options, keyboard shortcuts, and copy/pasting functionalities are disabled during the exam attempt. Students cannot exit the quiz until their attempt has been submitted.

Respondus Monitor, used in conjunction with LockDown Browser, allows students to take online assessments from a remote location, while ensuring the integrity of the exam process. Students use a webcam to record themselves during an online exam. Afterward, flagged events and proctoring results are available to the instructor for further review. Alternatively, instructors may choose the live proctoring option available through Monitor to proctor a quiz during a live session of a third-party conferencing tool like Webex or Zoom.

Respondus LockDown Browser and Monitor are easy to set up and use for quizzes in GeorgiaVIEW. Students must download the Respondus software to attempt a quiz that requires LockDown Browser.

This workshop will take place virtually on May 13 at 10 a.m. The link to attend will be sent out to registrants the morning of the workshop.

CTL Workshop: Developing Problem Solving - The Process, Strategies, Tips, & Tricks

Center for Teaching & Learning : Tuesday May 10, 2022

This session is the sequel to the nationally recognized "Developing Student Critical Thinking through Higher-Order Questions." Using AAC&U's problem-solving rubric as the model framework for addressing problem-solving, this session provides five classroom strategies and tips and tricks you can use with learners. You will also get on-demand resources to include a lesson plan you can try out with learners.

This workshop will take place virtually on June 2 at 12 noon. Registrants will be sent the link to attend on the morning of the workshop.

CTL Workshop: Using Rubrics to Improve Student Learning

Center for Teaching & Learning : Tuesday May 10, 2022

Join us for a session on using rubrics in your courses to promote student learning. During the session, we will discuss types of rubrics and reasons for using the different types. Rubrics are great for learners and let students know what is expected of them. We will provide tips for creating effective rubrics and demonstrate how to set up and use rubrics in GeorgiaVIEW.

This workshop will take place virtually on May 20, at 12 noon. Registrants will be sent the link to attend on the morning of the workshop.

CTL Workshop - Building Community in an Online Environment

Center for Teaching & Learning : Tuesday May 10, 2022

Join us for a session on building community in an online environment. This session will provide participants with ideas on promoting a sense of community within an online course. Research indicates that building a community in an online environment promotes collaborative learning and student engagement. During the session, we will share tips for building a strong community in your online classroom. Topics will include communication channels, creating a sense of belonging, and promoting collaboration between students.

This workshop will be hosted virtually on June 8 at 11 a.m. Registrants will be sent the link to attend on the morning of the workshop.
