You must open this document in Adobe Reader (or equivalent) to see attached documents. Most browsers do not allow access to these embedded files.

The screenshot shows the Adobe Reader interface. At the top, there is a toolbar with icons for save, star, cloud, print, and search, along with page navigation controls (up/down arrows, page number 10 / 116, and zoom in/out buttons) and a zoom level of 117%. On the left side, there is a sidebar with icons for document, bookmark, and search. The main area is divided into two panels: 'Attachments' and 'Organizer'. The 'Attachments' panel is highlighted with a green box and contains a list of PDF files. The 'Organizer' panel shows a tree view with 'DEPARTMENT WEB SITE' and 'ATTACHMENT' folders. A green arrow points from the 'Georgia Power seminar series.pdf' file in the Attachments panel to the 'ATTACHMENT' folder in the Organizer panel. Below the Organizer panel, there is a text instruction: 'Locate the document you need from the attachments panel.'

Congratulations to Georgia College Undergraduates Presenting Research at the Georgia State Capitol!

Mentored Undergraduate Research and Creative Endeavors (MURACE) : Wednesday
February 1, 2023

Congratulations to all Georgia College & State University undergraduate students whose projects were accepted for presentation at the Fifth Annual Posters at the Georgia State Capitol on February 27th!

Anna Agi with the project titled "Diatom community responses to Best Management Practices within the Chesapeake Bay Watershed (VIP)" (Mentor: Dr. Kalina Manoylov, Biology)

Alexandra Furney with a project titled "Role of Regulatory mRNA Structures in the Expression of Cancer-Related Genes" (Mentor: Dr. Arnab Sengupta, Biology)

Rachel Howell and Carson Beasley with a project titled "Exercise and Social-Media in Relation to Mental Health During the Pandemic" (Mentor: Dr. Tsu-Ming Chiang, Psychology)

Lauren Moskowitz with a project titled "Does Holding a Specific Executive Rank within a Company Affect the Probability of Committing Insider Trading?" (Mentor: Dr. Christopher Clark, Economics)

Evan Dunnam and Noah Pendrey with a project titled "Production of a Portable Solar Generator" (Mentor: Dr. Hasitha Mahabaduge, Physics)

Our wonderful undergraduate researchers will be joined by peers from 13 additional public and private institutions of higher education from across the state of Georgia. It was a very competitive year for this event with 90 submissions.

Well done, students and faculty mentors!

Biology & Environmental Sciences, Department of : Tuesday February 7, 2023

Please join us for the Provost's Visiting Scholar public lecture and discussion

Title: Ecology of extreme environments and water science of the future

presented by Dr. REBECCA J. BIXBY,

Director of the University of New Mexico Water Resources Program; Department of Biology & Museum of Southwestern Biology, University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, New Mexico.
Learn more about the Water Resources Program on the University of New Mexico website

Wednesday Feb 15th, 2023, 5 PM, Arts & Sciences, room 167

Dr. Bixby leads a research program at the intersection of biodiversity, ecology, and water management, focused on aquatic ecosystems in the arid southwestern United States. Her research examines responses and adaptation of aquatic organisms to natural and anthropogenic stressors like fire, drought, and flooding. Those are of great interest to several faculty in the Department of Biological and Environmental Sciences and in the GC Aquatic Center.

For students interested in Water Resources Graduate work, Water regulations and interdisciplinary use of science for improvement of the environment can meet with Dr Bixby on Feb. 14th and/or 16th 2023. Additional support for student meeting provided by Dr. Manoylov through Georgia Power Endowed Professorship in Environmental Sciences and the GC Aquatic Center (contact Dr. Manoylov at kalina.manoylov@gcsu.edu for more info).

5th Annual Leading Change Women's Leadership Conference

Women's Center : Wednesday February 8, 2023

Students, staff, faculty, alumni, and community members are invited to join us for our 5th Annual Leading Change Women's Leadership Conference! As we move into this year's conference, in a world that seems uncertain, individuals and organizations continue to process this "new normal" we live in and explore future possibilities, it can often feel like we're being asked to do more with less.

What would it look like if instead we flipped this sentiment on its head and considered what we could do, who we could be, what we could achieve, if we focused on prioritizing doing the things that really matter to us? These are the questions behind this year's Georgia College Women's Leadership Conference theme - Leading Change: Do Less, Be More.

With this year's conference, we're zeroing in on the things that allow for us to be more - more creative, more authentic, more aligned with our goals, more [insert whatever it is that you're striving for here].

The WLC will be held on Friday, March 24th, from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. Please follow this link to learn more about the Women's Leadership Conference, including how to register on our website.

The Women's Leadership Conference is a collaborative event brought to you by the Women's Center & LGBTQ+ Programs, the Office of Community Engagement, Office of Inclusive Excellence, the Alumni Association, and the J. Whitney Bunting College of Business and Technology.

THE LIFE OF A FLOWER - art exhibition

Art, Department of : Sunday February 12, 2023

GCSU art students engaged in the study of ceramics will be exhibiting their ceramic vases at Allied Arts, Marlor House for the annual St. Valentine's Day flower show: The Life of a Flower.

Studio ceramics is more than art in the making: It is the negotiation between geological mineral and art. Students studying ceramic objects understand that the success of their objects is connected to their practice with the material and by working in collaboration with their peers. Their exhibit represents their artistic negotiation between learning, creative endeavors, nature. We know that there is no outdoing nature but our goal is to remember it.

The life of the flower is a one-week exhibit that remembers nature, celebrates our objects, and presents creative endeavors in art.

The reception is February 14, 2023 from 5:00pm to 7:00pm and is curated by Ellen Patton.

Students engaged in the exhibition:

Ana Ledford, Anna Rigby, Anna Samson, Bristol Parker, Callie McCarty, Cheyenne Brooks, Ellen Patton, Emma Holm, Emmy Murphy, Eve Chapa, Hayden Bryant, Jack Licata, Jessalyn McEwen, Katy Boatright, Landry Weaver, Lorin Taylor, Maryellen Hagberg, Sally Sir, Samantha Threlkeld, Savannah Biggers, SK Krivsky, Teddy Grohovsky

Dr. Martha Colvin Lecture Series on Mental Health, February 16th at 6 PM

College of Health Sciences : Tuesday February 14, 2023

The Dr. Martha Colvin Lecture Series on Mental Health is this Thursday evening. All faculty, staff, students and community members are invited to attend. Refreshments will be available before the lecture. We are encouraging everyone to have questions ready for the guest speaker.

- What: Martha Colvin Lecture Series on Mental Health
- When: Thursday, Feb. 16 at 6 pm
- Where: Peabody Auditorium
- Who: Dr. Scott Van Sant
- Topic: Strategies to Strengthen Our Mental Health Post Pandemic

Scott Van Sant, MD, PC, obtained his medical degree from the University of South Florida and completed his psychiatry residency training at Emory University in Atlanta. He is board-certified in general adult and forensic psychiatry.

He has spent his entire career in the public sector behavioral health field, including formerly serving as medical director of DeKalb Crisis Center in Atlanta, Georgia; chief medical officer of Central State Hospital in Milledgeville, Georgia; medical director of Augusta University's adult and geriatric inpatient psychiatric units; and associate training director of Medical College of Georgia's general psychiatry residency training program.

Presently, he is the Clinical Director of Benchmark Human Services Georgia Crisis Programs, which provides emergency mobile crisis interventions for individuals with mental health disorders and developmental disabilities in Georgia.

His professional interests include psychopharmacology, treatment of persons with chronic severe mental illness, management of co-occurring psychiatric and intellectual disabilities, and improving mental health delivery systems. Scott has been on the COHS Leadership Board since 2019.

This lecture series was established by the College of Health Sciences administration, faculty and staff in honor of Dr. Martha Colvin for her 25 years of service with distinction as a nurse educator, nursing administrator and associate dean of the College of Health Sciences.

In 1988, Dr. Colvin brought with her to Georgia College & State University a wealth of academic preparation, clinical expertise, and seven years of college-level teaching experience. Her initial assignment as a faculty member in the School of Nursing was as a psychiatric and mental health clinical nurse specialist in the Department of Family Health.

In 1997, she was appointed Chair of the Department of Family Health. In 2009 she was appointed Associate Dean of the College of Health Sciences, and during her tenure, she was an active member of the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill (NAMI). She worked tirelessly as an advocate for the mentally ill.

In December 2013, Dr. Colvin retired with professor emeritus status from Georgia College and currently resides in Chattanooga, TN.

“Keepers of the Flame Fan the Flames of Change: A Digital Oral History Project on Georgia Women in Barbecue”

Film Premier: Wednesday, March 1 at 6:00 p.m. in A&S Auditorium.
Reception immediately afterward at 7:00 p.m. in Chappell Hall 113.

Students, faculty and staff, and the local community are invited to attend.

Presented by Craig Pascoe, Professor of History, and James Hill "Trae" Welborn, III, Associate Professor of History, Department of History and Geography.

This project is two mini-documentaries that focus on two women pitmasters/bbq restaurant owners in Georgia—Jenica Gilmore of Vanna BBQ in Vanna and Tammy Woodard of Smokey's BBQ in Pooler.

This is the first two episodes in a planned series of mini-documentaries about the role and importance of women in the region's barbecue traditions both in the past and the present. Our focus in this series will be on women pitmasters and restaurant owners operating in a 'traditionally male dominated' profession who have overcome adversity and a wall of "tradition" that blocked their entrance into the business of barbecue. We also examine women's efforts to keep their businesses afloat during COVID, barbecue as an entrepreneurial opportunity for women who do not have the financial means to open a large business, maintaining a culinary tradition in the region, and acceptance by the local community.

Special thanks to the Digital Humanities Collaborative for providing the funds and support in creating an innovative way to use digital technology to educate students on the history and culture of the American South through the lens of food.

This project is two mini-documentaries that focus on two women pitmasters/bbq restaurant owners in Georgia—Jenica Gilmore of Vanna BBQ in Vanna and Tammy Woodard of Smokey’s BBQ in Pooler.

This is the first two episodes in a planned series of mini-documentaries about the role and importance of women in the region’s barbecue traditions both in the past and the present. Our focus in this series will be on women pitmasters and restaurant owners operating in a ‘traditionally male dominated’ profession who have overcome adversity and a wall of “tradition” that blocked their entrance into the business of barbecue. We also examine women’s efforts to keep their businesses afloat during COVID, barbecue as an entrepreneurial opportunity for women who do not have the financial means to open a large business, maintaining a culinary tradition in the region, and acceptance by the local community.

Special thanks to the Digital Humanities Collaborative for providing the funds and support in creating an innovative way to use digital technology to educate students on the history and culture of the American South through the lens of food.

Georgia College to Host T. Dallas Smith on Monday, February 20th

Leadership Programs : Tuesday February 14, 2023

T. Dallas Smith, noted civic leader, to speak at Georgia College.

On Monday, February 20th, at 5 p.m, Georgia College Leadership Programs will host T. Dallas Smith, founder and CEO of T. Dallas Smith & Company. The event is part of Georgia College's Usery Forum on Leadership.

Smith founded the T. Dallas Smith & Company in 2007. Since its founding, the company has grown to be the largest African American–owned pure tenant representation firm in the country, having effectively negotiated projects nationwide exceeding $15 billion in value. Smith began his career in commercial real estate in 1982, working under Thomas W. Tift at Atlanta Air Center Realty; in 1989 he became the first African American broker at Cushman & Wakefield of Georgia. In 1995 he joined the African American–owned construction and management firm H.J. Russell. In 2020 Smith was appointed to the board of regents of the University System of Georgia.

“I am delighted and honored to welcome T. Dallas Smith to Georgia College,” says Dr. Harold Mock, director of leadership programs. “Mr. Smith is an innovator and thought-leader, who has used his talents to make Georgia a great place to live and do business.”

The forum will be hosted by Georgia College Leadership Programs.

The event is free and open to the public and will be held in the Magnolia Ballroom in Milledgeville. To learn more, visit the Inspire! Forum on Leadership website

The Usery Forum on Leadership honors the legacy of U.S. Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery, Jr., exploring leadership that brings people together in service to the public good. The series is supported by a generous gift from Mr. and Mrs. Melvin and Eleyce Usery.

Georgia College's Office of Leadership Programs provides teaching, research, and public service related to leadership, citizenship, democracy, and public affairs. With the support of a distinguished faculty and practitioners, we educate the next generation of Georgia's leaders for the public good. Our programs bring together scholars and students, as well as business leaders, non-profit executives, journalists, and public officials, and offer a trusted forum on citizen-leadership and pressing issues of the day.

Faculty Recital, "Oh, the Humanity!" Dr. Lovell, piano

Music, Department of : Wednesday February 15, 2023

Tuesday, March 7 At 7:30 p.m., Georgia College & State University presents a collaborative, liberal arts experience in Max Noah Recital Hall. The piano recital, "Oh, the Humanity," will be enhanced by selected readings by two English professors, writer Dr. Kerry Neville and poet Laura Newbern. The performance contains mature and emotionally-challenging themes, as well as adult language. The title was inspired by broadcaster Herbert Morrison's famous radio coverage of the Hindenburg disaster in 1937. It highlights various aspects of the human condition and is a plea to rekindle the humanity in all of us. Great compositions, like Sergei Rachmaninov's "Prelude in B minor" and Franz Schubert's "Piano Sonata in B-flat Major," testify to heartfelt emotions and the cycle of life and death. This concert will also be livestreamed on the Music Department's Facebook page. A $5 donation is encouraged. Head Over Heels: GCSU Theatre presents romantic romp with message of inclusion

Theatre & Dance, Department of : Thursday February 16, 2023

Just past St. Valentine's Day, Georgia College & State University (GCSU) presents its romantic spring musical, Feb. 22-26. "Head Over Heels" is an upside-down, frolicking fairy tale about prophetic doom, mistaken identities and self-discovery set in a kingdom with 1980s punk costumes, Elizabethan Old English and upbeat music from the Go-Go's.

But, mostly, it's a play about love, inclusiveness and acceptance.

James Magruder's adaptation of the original book by Jeff Whitty, "Head Over Heels" opens with the Go-Go's hit "We Got the Beat." The beat is what sustains the town of Arcadia. An oracle warns the town it's about to lose this essence, due to the king's refusal to change. The king is played by freshman mass communication major Jonathan Doss of Gwinnett.

The beat is "like the force in Star Wars," said freshman management major Ben McPherson of Sharpsburg, Georgia, who plays Musidorus, a lowly, forlorn shepherd looking for affection. He loves the king's younger daughter, who's barred from marrying beneath her status.

To marry, the princess must wait until her elder sister weds. But the haughty sister, played by sophomore theatre major Lexi Gordy of Covington, rejects every suitor.

It's a story of unfulfillment and awakening, of staunch traditions and tolerance—accompanied by 18 great songs by the Go-Go's including "Head Over Heels," "Vacation," "Our Lips are Sealed," "Get Up and Go," "Lust to Love," "Mad About You," "Cool Jerk" and "Heaven is a Place on Earth."

The hot-pink set opens like a fairytale book. There are sword fights, baggy pants from the '80s and lots of 'thee' and 'thou' language set in a kingdom where people are not who they appear to be.

It's retro. It's ancient. It's modern. It's timeless.

"It all comes together in a wonderful, magical mesh of personality, song and dance," said Director Amy Pinney.

A cast of 16 student actors is supported by about 50 students behind the scenes doing set, lights, makeup and costumes.

GCSU's production of "Head Over Heels" premieres at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 22, in Russell Auditorium and runs through Saturday, Feb. 25, with a matinee performance at 2 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 26. Tickets can be purchased at tickets.gcsu.edu. Cost is $15 for general admission; $10 for senior citizens, faculty and staff and non-GCSU students; and $5 for GCSU students.

“You’re going to feel great when you leave,” Pinney said. “The show is uplifting.”

Her sentiments were echoed by Gordy, who said the play “is a true happily-ever-after.”

“You’re going to regret it, if you don’t come and see it. I can promise you that,” McPherson said.

Talk by Dr. Dana Gorzelany-Mostak, "From Nope to Dope: How Barack Obama and Kamala Harris Found a Hip Hop Strategy"

Philosophy Religion & Liberal Studies, Department of : Thursday February 16, 2023

In celebration of Black History Month, please join Black Studies and the department of Philosophy, Religion, and Liberal Studies for a talk by Dana Gorzelany-Mostak, "From Nope to Dope: How Barack Obama and Kamala Harris Found a Hip Hop Strategy." There will be a question and answer period following the talk, in which we encourage all to participate.

The event will be held in the Arts and Sciences Auditorium (263) at 2pm on Monday, February 20. We welcome students, faculty, staff, as well as the public. Please inform and bring anyone who is interested. This will be our final event this month. Please contact Brooke Rudow, brooke.rudow@gcsu.edu, with any questions.

A description of Dr. Gorzelany-Mostak's talk is as follows:

At a 2008 campaign event, presidential candidate Barack Obama dismissed the attacks of primary opponent Hillary Clinton by symbolically brushing dirt off his shoulder, a nod to hip hop mogul Jay Z's popular track "Dirt Off Your Shoulder." The casual gesture resonated with supporters and inspired countless memes and remixes across social media. Blogger Spencer Ackerman even referred to Obama's brush as "the coolest subliminal cultural reference in the history of American politics." While this unscripted act may affirm the candidate's cool quotient, hip dad character, or man of the people persona, on a less explicit level, such moments of musical engagement operate as aural articulations of race and racial identity that tether the candidates to specific values, insights, histories, and embodied knowledge. If we are to consider the American presidency as both a symbol and an index of American masculinity, and by extension whiteness, how might music serve as a vehicle for performing identities both within and outside of this "standard," and what value might these articulations offer candidates and the constituencies with which they wish to communicate?

Early in her 2019 presidential campaign, Kamala Harris notably engaged with music on several occasions, including a mixtape on The Late Show with Stephen Colbert where she opined on her favorite songs and artists, and an interview on The Breakfast Club where she professed her love for Tupac and Snoop Dogg. While both Obama and Harris engaged with hip hop on the campaign trail, Obama's forays were met with applause, whereas Harris's opened the floodgates to a flurry of criticism. This presentation analyzes the media discourses surrounding Harris' engagement against the backdrop of recent scholarship on the intersection of politics, race, and gender. Ultimately, this analysis shows that while music engagement bestows cultural capital on male candidates, for female candidates, and especially Black women, musicality becomes yet another minefield of double standards.

Communication, Department of : Friday February 17, 2023

Join the Georgia College Speech & Debate Team, the Department of Communication, and the Department of History and Geography as we welcome R. Jarrod Atchison, PhD to the Georgia College campus. Dr. Atchison is Associate Professor of Communication and John Kevin Medica Director of Debate at Wake Forest University; He is co-author of We Are Not One People: Secession and Separatism in American Politics since 1776 (Oxford University Press, 2022) and serves as President of the American Forensics Association. Join us for a Keynote and Moderated Discussion at 5pm Feb. 20th in Heritage Hall--off the Library's Clarke st. entrance. To learn more about Dr. Atchison, his teaching and research in rhetoric, and the claims advanced in his new book, email Director of Forensics Dr. Nathan H. Bedsole (nathan.bedsole@gcsu.edu).

Atchison's provocative book lays bare the persistent thread of secessionist imaginaries across otherwise disparate and unrelated corners of American public and civic life. With case studies on libertarian secession, lesbian separatism, Black radicalism, Christian doomsday preppers, and the Confederate South, Lee & Atchison's book undergoes trenchant research into available rhetorical materials, sacred texts, and public speeches to exhume this common thread in civil, national identity.

Graduate & Professional School Fair - February 23, 2023

Career Center : Tuesday February 21, 2023

Are you thinking about Graduate School? Recruiters from GC's Graduate School and outside universities will attend this event to promote their graduate programs to GC students. Approximately over 20 programs will be in attendance! Find programs related to your major or in completely new career areas!

This event will be outside by the A&S Fountain and on the front walkway from 10 AM to 1 PM on Thursday, Feb. 23th.

This event is ideal for sophomores and juniors as they consider graduate school options and plan for the admissions process. Seniors who are still trying to figure out where they want to attend or what programs fit them should attend as well. Freshmen who are beginning to wonder about ways to use their interests in a career should plan to attend as well!

You'll be able to meet face-to-face with program representatives to ask questions about the specific programs and the university.

Casual attire. Résumés are not required. Drop in as your schedule allows!

"This Might Hurt" - Virtual Documentary Screening

Psychological Science, Department of : Friday February 24, 2023

The Georgia College & State University Chapter of Psi Chi,
Psychology Club, and STEM Club presents:

"This Might Hurt" - A documentary screening and virtual panel discussion!

Chronic pain impacts an estimated 50.2 million adults in the United States every day or nearly every day (Yong, Mullins, & Bhattacharyya, 2022). Many of those individuals report that "traditional" interventions (e.g., opiates, physical therapy, etc.) have limited to no effect on managing their pain. Over the past several years, researchers and clinicians have been testing the effectiveness of other interventions for managing chronic pain, including the use of cannabis (McDonagh et al., 2022) and psychological interventions like Pain Reprocessing Therapy (PRT - Ashar, Gordon, & Schubiner, 2021) and Emotional Awareness & Expression Therapy (EAET - Lumely & Schubiner, 2019).

This Might Hurt, "offers solutions to reduce and unlearn chronic pain. The film follows three chronic pain patients who have spent years searching for answers. Desperate for relief, they enter a new medical program – run by Dr. Howard Schubiner – that focuses on uncovering hidden causes of pain and retraining their brains to switch the pain off." The documentary focuses on PRT as an intervention and discusses psychological aspects of pain.

We have screening window for viewing the documentary that runs from February 21st through March 7th and on March 7th at 6 p.m., we will host a virtual panel discussion with one of the filmmakers and Daniel Lyman, LCSW MPA - Founder/director of the Mind Body Therapy & Coaching Center! During the panel where you can ask them questions as well as learn more about the film and the interventions.

To view the film, register for the panel discussion, and find other resources related to the documentary, please go to the This Might Hurt film's screening website and enter the password: gcsu2023

Guest Artist and Faculty Recital: Mikael Adon Darmanie, piano and Bryan Emmon Hall, violin

Music, Department of : Friday February 24, 2023

Thursday, March 23 Guest artist Mikael Adon Darmanie and Georgia College & State University faculty Bryan Hall will perform a piano and violin recital at 7:30 p.m. in Max Noah Recital Hall. The program features impressive techniques on both instruments—such as a fiery fantasy on themes from Georges Bizet’s “Carmen” and romantic sonata masterpieces by Edvard Grieg and Camille Saint-Saëns. Darmanie is the keyboardist, DJ, composer and arranger for the band Warp Trio. He has performed throughout the Americas, Europe, Africa, Russia and the Caribbean. Hall is the 2023 winner of the prestigious 31st International Conductors Workshop and Competition held in Atlanta, Georgia. This concert will also be livestreamed on the Music Department's Facebook page. A $5 donation is encouraged. All proceeds benefit music scholarships or the GC Department of Music through GCSU Foundation, Inc. For more information, please email music@gcsu.edu or call 478-445-8289.

Careers in the U.S. State Department Talk

National Scholarships Office at Georgia College : Monday February 27, 2023

Are you interested in learning about opportunities to work or intern with the U.S. State Department - or with other arms of the federal government? (Or are you just interested in learning about career opportunities that will take you overseas?)

On March 7, Vallera Gibson, a Georgia College alum and retired U.S. Foreign Service Officer, will be visiting campus to speak with students about career opportunities with the U.S. State Department. The State Department hires a wide range of individuals, from "generalists" who serve as diplomats to lawyers who represent the U.S. government overseas to doctors, nurses, and other healthcare providers to information technology specialists who work in the U.S. and abroad. For some of these careers, the U.S. federal government even funds graduate degrees!

Join us at 2PM in Peabody Auditorium for a reception to learn more about about these opportunities. Light refreshments will be provided.

Can't make this talk? Ms. Gibson will also be speaking at 3:30 PM in Atkinson 202.
