Esteban Patino Artist Talk

Art, Department of : Wednesday March 1, 2023

Artist in Residence and current Leland Gallery exhibitor Esteban Patino will be speaking on his process and work on March 9, 5:00-6:00 PM, in A&S 272.

“Aesthetically, each iteration of my language study is distinct: my sculptures are sinuous sentinels, seeking symbolic approximation to atemporality and the possibility of universal shapes; my collages are humanoid bricolages, amorphous inquisitive monsters that portray the complexities of time and human existence; my paintings are deeply intuitive forms that awaken on the canvas, often drawing on the colors and landscapes of my native Colombia. However distinct, these styles are deeply in concert with one another—forming my praxis and pushing to me (re)consider the multifarious nature of words as symbols with infinite idiosyncratic interpretations.”

Saladin Scholars Awards Ceremony & Research Day Keynote Address

Honors College : Monday March 6, 2023

All GCSU faculty, staff, and students are cordially invited to the Saladin Scholars Awards Ceremony & Research Day Keynote Address, which is co-sponsored by the John. E. Sallstrom Honors College & MURACE and which will be held on Tuesday, March 28 at 6:00 p.m. in Magnolia Ballroom. This is a signature event for us, and we would love for you to be a part of it! Please complete this online form to RSVP no later than March 22 or RSVP by using the QR code in the embedded flier.

The keynote speaker is Dr. Destenie Nock, Assistant Professor of Engineering and Public Policy and Civil and Environmental Engineering at Carnegie Mellon University. Her address is titled "Stepping Stones for a Meaningful Career."

Abstract: Landing a meaningful career is a worthy goal, but how do you know which stepping stones will get you to your dream job? Dr. Nock will share her experiences navigating through academia, studying abroad in Ireland and Malawi, and how all of that ultimately led to a career working in solving energy poverty. She will talk about her experience as a Mitchell Scholar, the graduate study that she facilitated at Queen's University in Belfast, her research on sustainable energy planning and how students can craft paths that positively benefit communities around the world.

Bio: Dr. Nock is a leader in energy justice, environmental justice, sustainable energy transitions, and the energy-poverty-climate change nexus. In her current work she is developing frameworks for understanding the sustainability and equity trade-offs for different power plant investments across the US. In addition, she has pioneered new measures of energy poverty to help utility companies identify vulnerable populations and energy deficits (i.e., energy limiting behavior and forgone thermal comfort). Dr. Nock is the Chief Executive Officer of Peoples Energy Analytics, a data driven company which uses energy analytics to identify energy poverty in vulnerable households. She is also the Chief Sustainability Officer of DevvStream a carbon streaming company. Dr. Nock received her PhD in Industrial Engineering and Operations Research from the University of Massachusetts Amherst, and two BS degrees in Electrical Engineering and Applied Mathematics from North Carolina A&T state University.

GC Thirst for Knowledge: Paddle Down the Oconee: RESCHEDULED

Academic Outreach : Tuesday March 7, 2023

THIS EVENT HAS BEEN RESCHEDULED DUE TO INCLEMENT WEATHER. SEE YOU ON APRIL 15!

Students are invited to join Academic Outreach, the Aquatic Sciences Center and the Outdoor Center as we learn about water quality, clean-up a bit and enjoy a relaxing paddle down the Oconee River Friday, March 10 from 9:00 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.!

Cost is $10 per person and will include boat rental, gear and light snacks. you need only bring additional snacks, water bottle, change of clothes, Closed-toe heeled shoes, bug spray, and sunscreen.

We will look at the Dissolved Oxygen, pH, temperature and conductivity of the River at the Greenway where we will put our canoes in, a midway stop at a sandbar and when we pull our boats out at the Central State Boat Ramp. Each canoe will have a trashbag and as we paddle we can collect a little trash if we see it. Spaces are limited to 11 participants for paddling and a waiver of liability is required

Everyone: If you are not interested in paddling, but want to help with a clean-up and learn more about water quality, we will have tables of activities and information at the Greenway from 9:00a - 12:00p. Stop by for a little while and learn more!

Please follow this link to register online via give pulse.

TODAY: The state's only K-5 Science & Engineering Fair will be largest ever at GCSU

Science Education Center : Wednesday March 8, 2023

Georgia College & State University (GCSU) will host its annual state science competition for kindergarten through fifth grade from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday, March 9, at Centennial Center.

It'll be the largest group of elementary students since the fair started in 2018.

This year, 49 school districts across Georgia will send 439 K-5 students presenting 317 projects to compete in the state fair. All projects in Thursday's competition won first place in local school districts.

"This competition started 6 years ago as Georgia College was the only regional competition in the state still holding K-5 fairs. Other regions wanted to send their students to us," said Dr. Catrena Lisse, director of the university's Science Education Center.

"We expanded beyond our region and became the official K-5 state science and engineering fair," she said. "It's exciting to see so many young people engaging in the scientific process and solving the mysteries of their own curiosity."

Several new school systems from North and Southeastern Georgia will be at the fair this year. Counties participating from Central Georgia include Baldwin, Bibb, Jones, Monroe, Washington and Wilkinson.

The K-5 State Science Fair follows the 46th Annual Regional Science & Engineering Fair for 6-12th graders held at Georgia College in February. Several projects at that fair experimented with spiders, sugar and humidity.

Topics for the upcoming the K-5 level include:

- studying the aerodynamics of paper airplanes
- investigating the strength of triangle trusses to build stronger bridges
- exploring the chemistry of making big bubbles
- using electric motors to improve transportation in metro areas
- considering the optimum angle for kicking a football.

About 180 Georgia College students will volunteer at the science fair, along with more than 120 professional judges who specialize in STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics). Activities for participants include a STEM marketplace and movie, engineering design challenges, science games and tours of the university's Natural History Museum and new Integrated Science Complex.

Students will be at their project exhibits starting at 8 a.m. with judging from 10 a.m. to noon. The fair is open to the public from 1:30 to 4 p.m., and the awards ceremony is at 5 p.m. at Centennial Center.

“As a scientist, I have an obligation to share my love of science with our youth, especially our smallest ones, in order to keep their interest alive as they grow,” Lisse said. “By the time they reach middle and high school, either the seed of love for science has been planted and nurtured or it hasn't.”

Human Resources, Office of : Friday March 10, 2023

TRS will be visiting GCSU on April 18, 2023 for an on-site, in-person Pre-Retirement Workshop. This will be a general information session for those interested in learning about retirement; information regarding one-on-one in-person consultations with a TRS representative will be shared in the near future.

You must register for this event in order to attend. It's recommended that you sign-up ASAP because space is limited! *Members who are not within 5 years of retirement will not be allowed to sign up; this is a TRS regulation.

Event details can be found in the attached flyer, but are noted below:

- Date: April 18, 2023
- Time: 3:00-4:00 PM
- Location: Arts & Sciences Auditorium

To register, follow these easy steps:

Visit the login page for the Teacher Retirement System of Georgia website

2. Click on Account Login link in the upper navigation bar.
3. Select "Active Member" and proceed to the Account Login page.
4. Register for and/or log in to your TRS account.
5. Click on Register for an Event, choose Statewide Events, then choose BALDWIN County or enter Zip Code 31061.
6. Pick the event and time of your choice. You will receive an automatic e mail confirmation upon your successful registration.

If retirement is within reach for you (that means within 5 years!), it's time to get serious about learning about it! This workshop will provide you with the information and resources you need to help you map out your retirement plan. To learn more about this & other Pre-Retirement events, go to the Teachers Retirement System of Georgia website, click on "Events", then click on Pre-Retirement in the calendar navigation key.

If you experience issues logging in to your TRSGA account, please call the TRS Call Center at (404) 352-6500; the Office of Human Resources does not have access to this information and is unable to assist you.

Effective Stress Management Training

Human Resources, Office of : Friday March 17, 2023

The Office of Human Resources is offering an Effective Stress Management training. Please see the information below for the description and to register for the training.

- Training Topic: Effective Stress Management
- Date: June 21, 2023, 2:00 pm - 3:00 pm EST
- Registration Link: <https://attendee.gotowebinar.com/register/1941590629139901023>

Working under excessive pressure for a prolonged period of time can result in chronic stress which can have a significant adverse impact on our mental and physical health, in particular long-term cardiovascular problems due to the consistent and ongoing increase in heart rate, and elevated levels of stress hormones and of blood pressure.

Without understanding the physical stress response, it can be difficult to develop healthy coping strategies to help us tackle stress in an effective way, causing a build-up of stress hormones in our minds and bodies which leads to more significant health issues such as burnout and/or depression.

HOW PARTICIPANTS WILL BENEFIT

- + Understand the science of the stress response.
- + Recognize your own stress triggers.
- + Learn how to respond rather than react.
- + Discover powerful stress busting strategies.

Venture Capital Challenge - Win Real Money!

College of Business & Technology : Friday March 17, 2023

The Center for Innovation and Entrepreneurship is hosting its inaugural Venture Capital Challenge, VC2, on March 29th from 2-5pm in the Peabody Auditorium.

This is a competition where students can present (alone or in a team) a business pitch to a group of judges who will act like venture capital investors. Presenters will have 5 minutes to make their pitch and judges will have up to 5 minutes to ask them about why they should invest in their idea. While we aren't real investors, we are giving out real money!

Best Presentation: $400

Runner up: $200

Most Innovative Idea: $100

Any business idea will work, even if you haven't figured out all the details yet. We're not just looking for polished presentations for business that are ready to launch. We're ready to hear out any innovative business idea, no matter how early in development it is!

Reserving a 10 minute block of time to present is highly recommended but not required. Those who do will be guaranteed a chance to present at the time they booked, everyone else will have to hope we can work them in.

Contact Dr. Creel at 979-373-8901 or Nicholas.Creel@gcsu.edu With any questions and to reserve your spot today!

Training Opportunity: Discover the World of Emotional Intelligence

Human Resources, Office of : Friday March 17, 2023

The Office of Human Resources is excited to announce a new virtual training opportunity for all employees on Wednesday, March 22nd from 2:00 p.m. until 3:00 p.m. Please see the link below to register and the description of the training. We hope you will be able to join us!

Training Topic: Discover the World of Emotional Intelligence

When: Wednesday, March 22, 2023, 2:00 pm - 3:00 pm EST

Being able to recognize feelings in oneself and others, managing emotions, and balancing thoughts are invaluable traits that are associated with emotional intelligence (EQ). Emotional intelligence requires skills such as self-awareness, self-regulation, motivation, empathy, and social skills. Embracing the nuances of human emotion have demonstrated several benefits, particularly at work, such as better collaboration, compassionate leadership, boosted morale and overall, a happier and healthier workplace. Participants will learn that by recognizing the feelings of family members and co-workers, and responding in a balanced, rational way, they can improve relationships and collaborate more effectively. The session also examines new brain research on emotions and the battle between the emotional and the thinking brain.

How participants will benefit

At the end of this session participants will be able to:

- The ability to cope with daily situations and get along in the world includes both cognitive and emotional intelligence.
- The emotional brain impacts behavior.
- An 'amygdala attack' of panic reactions results when cognitive thinking stops.
- Calm breathing and focused listening add to EQ.

Creating a Resilient Mindset Training

Human Resources, Office of : Friday March 17, 2023

- Training Topic: Creating a Resilient Mindset
- Date: April 11, 2023, 10:00 am - 11:00 am EST
- Registration Link: <https://attendee.gotowebinar.com/register/1781079523668604246>

In an ever-evolving and transitioning landscape that often brings fear and uncertainty, it is important for us to know how to adjust effectively and remain resilient. This training will explore our relationship with failure and how by trans-forming our perception we can discover the vital secrets for developing an adaptable and confident mindset by embracing vulnerability and fear. Specifically, this session will explore the foundation of resilience, understanding yourself and your personal operating system and identifying the mental obstacles (thoughts, feelings, and attitudes) that get in your way. Participants will focus on five muscles: accepting personal accountability; developing a belief system that encourages and supports success; accurately and objectively assess your moods and blind spots; perfect your deep breathing techniques; and curate curiosity to view situations from different angles.

HOW PARTICIPANTS WILL BENEFIT

- + Discover the power of vulnerability when dealing with failure.
- + Learn how to perceive adversity as a learning opportunity.
- +Tackle limiting beliefs associated with challenge and change.
- + Understand how to embrace fear and take risks.

Poverty simulation gives glimpse of frustration and anxiety experienced by the poor

College of Health Sciences : Tuesday March 21, 2023

A unique poverty simulation Friday, March 24, will replicate the conditions of the poor, giving participants a hint of what it's like to face everyday hardships, scarceness of food and insufficient shelter.

The Community Action Poverty Simulation will be 2 to 4:30 p.m. in Georgia College & State University's Health Sciences building on N. Wilkinson Street, room 314. About 80 participants—from students, faculty and staff to local civic leaders—will experience this virtual reality of deprivation, designed by the Community Action Poverty Simulation (CAPS) in Missouri.

Millions live at or below the federal poverty level. Nearly 40% of Milledgeville's residents live in poverty. That's 26% higher than the state average and nearly 30% higher than the national average, according to the U.S. Census Bureau.

The simulation is designed to sensitize people who frequently deal with low-income families, creating a broader awareness of poverty among policymakers and community leaders. The ultimate goal is to inspire change and improve lives.

"This program helps people understand the complexities and frustrations of living in poverty daily," said Toyia Barnes, diversity officer in the College of Health Sciences (CoHS). "With a greater awareness of its impact, CoHS is meeting its goal of developing equity-minded, healthcare practitioners."

Participants will role-play the lives of low-income families using simulation kits. Some will be single mothers with children receiving Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF). Others will play the disabled, senior citizens on Social Security or people with chronic illnesses.

All will have the stressful task of meeting basic needs and finding shelter on limited budgets during the course of four, 15-minute 'weeks.'

The room is the community; a participant's chair is their home; and those sitting nearby, their neighbors. Participants will move around the room perimeter to get resources they need. They'll interact with human service agencies, schools, banks, grocers, pawnbrokers, bill collectors, job interviewers and police officers, among others.

Volunteers from local community service agencies will act as resource agents.

This event is hosted by the university's College of Health Sciences. Please follow this link to register online.

“Understanding the reality of poverty,” Barnes said, “will help our future healthcare practitioners as they enter their chosen fields of study.”

Bringing science to the elementary level: GCSU holds 5th Renewable Energy Day

Chemistry, Physics, & Astronomy, Department of : Tuesday March 21, 2023

About 65 first and second graders will attend Georgia College & State University's 5th Renewable Energy Day from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. today—Tuesday, March 21 at Centennial Center—as physics students demonstrate the power of sun, wind, water, biofuel and other sustainable sources.

It's the first Renewable Energy Day since the COVID-19 pandemic.

“Even if they cannot fully comprehend the ideas of climate change or global warming, it's important to expose children at very young ages to these topics,” said Dr. Hasitha Mahabaduge, associate professor of physics.

“We've seen how they light up when watching demonstrations related to different renewable energy technologies,” Mahabaduge said. “Georgia College students do a great job presenting these ideas at a level first and second graders can understand. It's a win-win situation for both parties and, most importantly, a win for our planet earth.”

Students from Lakeview Primary and Midway Hills Primary Schools in Milledgeville will rotate between several instructional and engaging demonstrations lasting 15 minutes each. There will also be lunch, a video, craft and closing activity.

Experiments include:

- Making solar cells using raspberries and blackberries
- Using popsicle sticks and paper cups as spinning wind turbines
- Watching waves move plastic tubes coiled in a wire, bobbing magnets up-and-down to generate an electrical current
- Creating a microbial fuel cell, where naturally-occurring electrochemical processes of anaerobic bacteria break down food into energy
- Games that demonstrate the electric grid and how solar cell works

Georgia College students helped organize the event and will assist with activities. They are volunteers from Mahabaduge's renewable energy class, the GCSU Physics Club and Office of Sustainability.

The day closes with elementary students signing a banner, pledging their commitment to conserve energy.

Affecting the Conflict: Art, Film, and War in Colombia

Art, Department of : Wednesday March 22, 2023

The Department of Art and the Latin American, Caribbean, and Latina/o Studies Program Present:

Ruben Yepes Munoz--Affecting the Conflict: Art, Film, and War in Colombia

Wednesday, March 29th, 1:00 PM, Peabody Auditorium

For nearly 60 years, Colombia was in the grip of a harrowing internal armed conflict. By the time the peace treaty between FARC—the largest of the country’s guerrilla groups—and the government was signed in 2016, nearly 17% of the population had been a direct victim of the war (according to UNICEF). While the conflict ravaged the countryside, it was, for the most part, experienced as a distant event in the main cities, where citizens mostly new about it through the media.

Visual artists have referred to the conflict since its beginning in the late 1950s. However, how they approach it has changed throughout the years. While in the early stages of the conflict, the explicit representation and denunciation of violence and human suffering was the norm, later, artists resorted to less explicit aesthetic strategies. In this lecture, I will address this shift toward an implicit mediation of the conflict and what that means in the context of the main cities, where most of the art in question has been produced and exhibited. A key focus will be on its capacity to affect Colombian urbanites, thereby bridging the distance between them and the predominantly rural conflict.

Ruben Yepes Munoz is an Assistant Professor of Art History at Georgia College. He received his PhD from the University of Rochester in 2017. His dissertation, which addresses the mediation of the Colombian armed conflict in visual art and film, was published in 2018. Current research focuses on the art produced in Latin America in response to the Covid-19 crisis and the genealogy of Latin American Visual Studies.

Ruben is the author of three books: Afectando el conflicto: Mediaciones de la guerra colombiana en el arte y el cine contemporáneo (2018), María José Arjona: Lo que puede un cuerpo (2015) and La política del arte: Cuatro casos de arte contemporáneo en Colombia (2012). He is also the author of a number of peer-reviewed articles and book chapters published in Argentina, Canada, Colombia, Mexico, and the United States.

Ruben has received several important fellowships, grants and awards, including the National Prize for Scholarly Essay in Art History (2017, Colombia), a Mellon/ACLS Dissertation Completion Fellowship (2016), a Grant for Research on Colombian Art from the Colombian Ministry of Culture (2015) and a Fulbright Scholarship (2012).

What is On the Table

On the Table is a one of a kind opportunity to bring people of diverse backgrounds together to have meaningful conversations about topics that are important to the community. This community-wide initiative seeks to explore the ways in which we have the power to collaborate to make our community stronger, safer, and more dynamic.

Following On the Table, the Community Foundation of Central Georgia will survey participants to find out what issues matter most to them and what kinds of ideas for solutions emerged from the day's conversations. We'll also help to share some stories of participants to help inspire others to make a difference.

This initiative would not be possible without the generous funding of the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation.

Rural Changemakers Lecture Series

Rural Studies Institute : Monday March 27, 2023

Hello,

The Rural Studies Institute (RSI) in partnership with the Sustainability Council is launching the inaugural Rural Changemakers Lecture Series on April 11, 2023 at 6:30 pm at Peabody Auditorium. We have a very exciting inaugural speaker, Catherine Coleman Flowers, a 2020 MacArthur genius fellow, who is internationally recognized for her work on environmental issues. Below you will find more discussion of her exciting work.

She is a 2020 MacArthur “genius” grant recipient, and an author. She has dedicated her life’s work to advocating for environmental justice, primarily equal access to clean water and functional sanitation for communities across the United States.

She is the Founder of the Center for Rural Enterprise and Environmental Justice (CREEJ), and has spent her career promoting equal access to clean water, air, sanitation, and soil to reduce health and economic disparities in marginalized, rural communities.

Flowers is a Board Member for the Center for Earth Ethics at Union Theological Seminary, and sits on the Board of Directors for the Climate Reality Project and the Natural Resources Defense Council. Flowers is also Co-Chair of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences Commission on Accelerating Climate Action and Practitioner in Residence at Duke University.

She serves as the Vice Chair of the inaugural White House Environmental Justice Advisory Council. Flowers was also named Levenick Resident Scholar in Sustainable Leadership at the University of Illinois for the spring 2021 and was awarded an honorary PhD in science from Wesleyan University.

As the author of Waste: One Woman’s Fight Against America’s Dirty Secret, Flowers shares her inspiring story of advocacy, from childhood to environmental justice champion. She has been featured in The New York Times, The Washington Post, Bloomberg, The Guardian, and on PBS.

Book Launch for "The Middle Daughter" by Chika Unigwe

English, Department of : Wednesday March 29, 2023

Please join GCSU's Creative Writing Program's Visiting Writers Series as we celebrate our very own Dr. Chika Unigwe's book launch for The Middle Daughter! She will be reading from her new novel and signing books. Of the novel, reviewer Helon Habila writes, "Chika Unigwe's modern retelling of the myth of Hades and Persephone is pitch perfect—it is a meditation on the need we all share for belonging, and family, and love; a commentary on the journey we must all take in search of freedom."

MFA students Michaela Reed and Sherri-Anne Forde will be reading from their work as well.

GC Thirst for Knowledge: Paddle Down the Oconee

Academic Outreach : Wednesday March 29, 2023

Looking for something fun to do before the ArtHealthy Festival on April 15? Students are invited to join Academic Outreach, the Aquatic Sciences Center and the Outdoor Center as we learn about water quality, clean-up a bit and enjoy a relaxing paddle down the Oconee River from 9:00 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.!

Cost is $10 per person and will include boat rental, gear and light snacks. you need only bring additional snacks, water bottle, change of clothes, Closed-toe heeled shoes, bug spray, and sunscreen.

We will look at the Dissolved Oxygen, pH, temperature and conductivity of the River at the Greenway where we will put our canoes in, a midway stop at a sandbar and when we pull our boats out at the Central State Boat Ramp. Each canoe will have a trash bag and as we paddle we can collect a little trash if we see it.

Spaces are limited to 12 participants for paddling. All participants must complete a waiver of liability form. Please follow this link to register online via give pulse.

Afterward, stop by the ArtHealthy Festival on Front Campus from 1:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m. and visit our table to learn more about water quality and Georgia Adopt-a-Stream. (Registration only needed for paddling event.)

To learn more, contact Ruth Eilers at ruth.eilers@gcsu.edu or Dr. Sam Mutiti at samuel.mutiti@gcsu.edu.

Sustainability Film Series presents "The Sacrifice Zone"

Sustainability, Office of : Friday March 31, 2023

Announcing the second showing in the Office of Sustainability's 2023 Sustainability Film Series, focusing on Environmental Justice.

The Sacrifice Zone

Thursday, April 6, 5:30-7:00pm
Museum Education Room (Library 211)
Enter from Clarke Street entrance.
Please invite students, staff, faculty, and friends.

If you travel down a one-mile stretch of Doremus Avenue in Newark, NJ, you pass a natural gas plant next to a sewage treatment facility next to an animal fat rendering plant next to a series of ominous looking chemical storage containers behind acres of fencing. Airplanes pass overhead every two minutes, their engines rattling windows, while a putrid smell wafts from the open pools at the sewage treatment plant.

This stretch is known as Chemical Corridor, and it's located just down the road from schools and apartment buildings. It borders the Ironbound neighborhood, where Portuguese, Brazilian, Central American and African American residents are separated from toxic substances by little more than a railroad track.

The Ironbound district of Newark, New Jersey, is one of the most toxic neighborhoods in the country. Maria Lopez-Nuñez, a Honduran-American resident there, is waging a war for environmental justice. She is part of the Ironbound Community Corporation, one of the most effective environmental justice organizations in the country. The Sacrifice Zone follows Maria as she leads a group of environmental justice fighters determined to break the cycle of poor communities of color serving as dumping grounds for our consumer society (52 min.).
