Associate Director of Special Collections and Galleries/University Archivist Library Candidate Presentation – First Candidate, Monday Feb. 5, 2024

Ina Dillard Russell Library : Thursday February 1, 2024

Georgia College & State University faculty, staff and students are invited to attend the presentation of the first candidate for the Associate Director of Special Collections and Galleries/University Archivist position. The presentation will be held in person Feb. 5 at 10:45 a.m. in the library room 302 (third floor). The candidate will speak for approximately 30 minutes on the topic below followed by a Q&A session:

Revitalizing Special Collections: Nurturing a Forward-Facing Organizational Culture in an Academic Library

As a candidate for the position of Associate Director of Special Collections and Galleries/University Archivist, we would like you to give a presentation that reflects your understanding of the critical role of creating a forward-facing organizational culture within a special collections department. Your presentation should outline a strategic approach to achieve this transformation, considering the unique challenges and opportunities at Georgia College & State University.

Please help show support for this very important position by attending the presentation if you are available to do so.

GCSU's new workforce readiness program will prep high schoolers for local jobs

School of Continuing and Professional Studies : Tuesday February 6, 2024

In the Middle Ages, youth were matched with master craftsmen through apprenticeships. Employers received inexpensive labor, while molding and training an upcoming workforce.

Similarly, Georgia College & State University, in collaboration with the Milledgeville-Baldwin County Chamber of Commerce, is launching a new Workforce Readiness Program. It will connect businesses with high school seniors who want to stay in Milledgeville and find local employment.

Information Session

A Zoom information session for business owners to learn about the program will be at noon Wednesday, Feb. 7.

“If you’re a high school student standing at the intersection of 441 looking down Columbia Street, what do you see as a job opportunity? Running a cash register and selling fries, right? Milledgeville is so much more than that,” said Angela Criscoe, executive director of the School of Continuing and Professional Studies at Georgia College.

“We want to match a high school student who wants to stay here in Milledgeville with businesses seeking quality talent. We want to help build a workforce pipeline for local businesses so they can train and mold workers for jobs they need to fill.”

The program runs June 3 to July 26 with the ultimate goal of students getting permanent jobs.

Participants are nominated for the program by their Baldwin County High School counselors.

At a career fair April 9, students will get an idea of the types of jobs available this summer. Local business owners will interview candidates at the fair and, soon after, a committee will determine best matches.

“Sometimes, young employees lack proper job etiquette,” Criscoe said. “They don’t always have good customer service skills yet or understand how to form relationships with clientele. That’s why our program starts with a week of education at Georgia College.”

Students will receive instruction from Georgia’s Best Workforce curriculum. They’ll do team-building activities, listen to guest speakers about leadership and meet local business owners. Then, students will have the opportunity to work four weeks for a local business, earning a minimum of $8 an hour. They might work on an assembly line or in human resources. There could be jobs in healthcare, city government, retail, construction, transportation and media groups.

During that time, students will receive valuable coaching, training and job skills—making them stronger candidates for future, full-time employment.

Businesses benefit too with a pool of already-trained job applicants to choose from.

To participate, businesses must commit by March 15. There is a commitment fee of $200 that pays for student instruction and an award ceremony at summer's end.

Students will receive a certificate of completion, showing they are workforce ready.

"This is a collaborative effort to connect people," Criscoe said. "This program will develop our youth to be better workers, better thinkers and better citizens. This will help our community grow."

"If we can fill jobs with quality talent, by growing and developing our own workforce," she added, "we're going to have a stronger, local workforce environment."

Business owners can register for the free, Zoom information session here.

NEH Summer Institute results - March discussion on Zoom

O'Connor Institute : Tuesday February 6, 2024

We are pleased to announce that Andalusia Institute is hosting a series of spring Zoom events, primarily to share the results of NEH Summer Institutes on Flannery O'Connor. Dr. Bruce Gentry will be the emcee on all events.

Thursday, March 14 - 7-8 p.m. (Eastern): Carmine Palumbo and Jack Love will lead a discussion on O'Connor and other authors.

Carmine Palumbo is a Professor of English at East Georgia State College in Swainsboro, Georgia, where he has taught and served as an academic administrator for nearly two decades. He was previously Chair of Humanities at Middle Georgia College in Cochran. He holds a Ph.D. in American Literature and Folklore from the University of Louisiana, where began his interest in the life and work of the late New Orleans author John Kennedy Toole, who taught at UL for several years prior to the posthumous publication of his Pulitzer Prize winning novel A Confederacy of Dunces. Palumbo was a participant in the NEH Summer Institute "Rediscovering Flannery O'Connor" in Milledgeville in 2023. He lives in Swainsboro with his wife and two children.

Jack Love is a PhD student at Texas A&M University in the English department. He studies late 19th to mid 20th century American literature with a specific focus on the American South, religion, and the environment. His topic of discussion looks at the religion of O'Connor's Wise Blood through the paradigm of Dwight Macdonald's masscult and midcult. A forthcoming article on the topic will be published in the March 2024 issue of Christianity and Literature.

Georgia College faculty, staff and students are invited to attend the presentation of the first candidate for the Associate Director of Special Collections and Galleries/University Archivist position. The presentation will be held in person Feb. 9 at 10:45 a.m. in the library room 241 on second floor. The candidate will speak for approximately 30 minutes on the topic below followed by a Q&A session:

Revitalizing Special Collections: Nurturing a Forward-Facing Organizational Culture in an Academic Library

As a candidate for the position of Associate Director of Special Collections and Galleries/University Archivist, we would like you to give a presentation that reflects your understanding of the critical role of creating a forward-facing organizational culture within a special collections department. Your presentation should outline a strategic approach to achieve this transformation, considering the unique challenges and opportunities at Georgia College & State University.

Please help show support for this very important position by attending the presentation if you are available to do so.

Workshop: Digital Humanities Visualization with Tableau

Digital Humanities Collaborative : Wednesday February 7, 2024

Tableau is a powerful data visualization tool used to refine and integrate data with effective display graphics, both static and dynamic. In the digital humanities, Tableau lends itself extremely well to exploring trends in data and creating interesting interactive devices to communicate to an audience.

In this two-hour workshop, we will gather and organize basic humanities data and publish a functional visualization to share with others. If you have a research project underway, please feel free to bring your own data to the workshop.

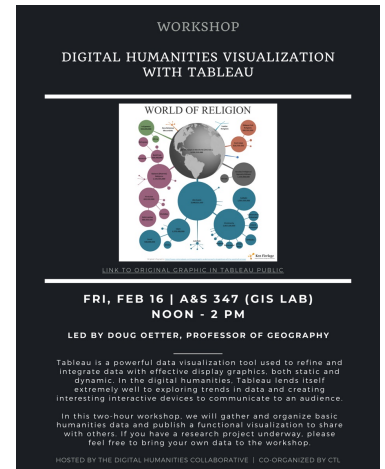

Led by Doug Oetter, professor of Geography.

Hosted by the Digital Humanities Collaborative and co-organized by the Center for Teaching & Learning.

The Life of a Flower - Student art exhibition

Art, Department of : Thursday February 8, 2024

Georgia College & State University art students engaged in the study of ceramics will be exhibiting their ceramic vases at Allied Arts, Marlor House for the annual St. Valentine's Day flower show: The Life of a Flower.

Studio ceramics is more than art in the making: It is the negotiation between geological mineral and art. Students studying ceramic objects understand that the success of their objects is connected to their practice with the material and by working in collaboration with their peers. Their exhibition represents their artistic negotiation between learning, creative endeavors and nature. We know that there is no outdoing nature, but our goal is to remember it.

The life of the flower is a one-week exhibition that remembers nature, celebrates our objects and presents creative endeavors in art.

The reception is Feb. 14, 2024, from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. and is curated by Ellen Patton.

Reminder: The Bottom Line: A Business Blueprint for DEI

Inclusion and Belonging, Office of : Thursday February 8, 2024

The Office of Inclusive Excellence and the Milledgeville-Baldwin County Chamber will present "The Bottom Line: A Business Blueprint for DEI" on Friday, Feb. 16, from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. in the Peabody Auditorium.

Organizations have come a long way to diversify their workforce. But diversity goes well beyond the numbers. The emerging workforce of millennials and Gen Z seek to work in a company where they can thrive and do their best work in an inclusive culture. In addition, the Gen Z consumer “sees increased diversity as good for society. Their views on diversity extend to the companies they show support for through their purchases.” – Pew Research Study 2019

An organization’s success is overwhelmingly reliant on its culture. Their culture reflects their values, customs and beliefs. Their culture must be able to not only attract and retain the millennial and Gen Z workforce but also keep their organizations relevant in this new consumer market.

This one-day conference will offer a panel discussion, breakout sessions and a keynote luncheon that will include business professionals sharing key insights on ways they have advanced DEI practices within their culture, as well as discussions about the importance and value of inclusion in the emerging millennial and Gen Z workplace.

The conference registration is \$20. Registration will include lunch. For additional information, please contact the Office of Inclusive Excellence at 478-445-4233.

Micro-intervention Workshop

Wednesday, Feb. 21 | 3:30 p.m. | Library Conference Room 302

Registration Link: <https://forms.office.com/r/Eby7uu1Sda>

Daily expressions of microaggressions in the workplace create a hostile and threatening employment climate, lower work productivity and increase employee turnover. In this workshop, you will learn how to counteract, challenge, diminish and neutralize interpersonal micro-aggressive expressions by using micro-interventions. Micro-interventions are intentional words or deeds that validate the targets' experiences, affirm their identities and offer encouragement, support and reassurance that the target is not alone.

By the end of this workshop, you will have the tools necessary to identify microaggressions when they occur, speak up and interrupt microaggressions using micro-interventions; thus, creating a more inclusive campus climate for everyone.

On Monday, Feb. 19, at 5 p.m., Georgia College & State University Leadership Programs will host Deke Copenhaver, best-selling author. The event will mark the second in the Usery Forum on Leadership series for 2024.

Deke Copenhaver is principal of Copenhaver Consulting, LLC. From 2005 to 2014, he served as mayor of Augusta-Richmond County. After leaving office, he hosted There it is ... with Deke Copenhaver, a live daily radio show. He has also served as managing consultant for the Augusta Economic Development Authority.

"I am delighted and honored to welcome Deke Copenhaver to Georgia College," said Dr. Harold Mock, director of leadership programs. "He's an innovator and someone who knows how to bring people together. I know our students will benefit from his wisdom and insights."

Copenhaver has been recognized on multiple occasions by Georgia Trend Magazine as one of the 100 Most Influential Georgians. He has spoken widely on city design, economic development, healthcare, veterans' issues and the nonprofit sector. He currently authors a monthly column on leadership published by the Georgia Municipal Association.

Copenhaver earned a B.A. in political science from Augusta College and is a graduate of Leadership Georgia and the Mayors' Institute on City Design. He is the author of The Changemaker: The Art of Building Better Leaders.

The forum will be hosted by Georgia College Leadership Programs.

The event is free and open to the public and will be held in the Magnolia Ballroom in Milledgeville. To learn more, please visit the event webpage.

The Usery Forum on Leadership honors the legacy of U.S. Secretary of Labor W.J. Usery Jr., exploring leadership that brings people together in service to the public good. The series is supported by a generous gift from Mr. and Mrs. Melvin and Eleyce Usery.

About Georgia College Leadership Programs

Georgia College's Office of Leadership Programs provides teaching, research and public service related to leadership, citizenship, democracy and public affairs. With the support of a distinguished faculty and practitioners, we educate the next generation of Georgia's leaders for the public good. Our programs bring together scholars and students, as well as business leaders, non-profit executives, journalists and public officials and offer a trusted forum on citizen-leadership and pressing issues of the day.

Leland Gallery New Exhibit Transeutis Mundi

Art, Department of : Tuesday February 13, 2024

The Transeutis Mundi Project proposes to capture the sound and visual memory of peoples, cultural expressions and places to artistically tell the story of the millennial passersby that have been crossing the world. It currently portrays the diversity of four countries from four continents and generates a poetical/documental archive of human cultural heritage. The expression Transeutis Mundi comes from Latin, the lingua franca of the expansion of Western Culture. It personifies the human being who has been taking the adventure to discover and explore the world. Its methodology employs Walkscapes recordings with immersive 360° technology. From this archive, it starts a process of transmedial composition: creation of virtual reality works, videos, photographs, sound art, musical compositions and performance, with the aim to immerse the observer/participant into an experience beyond their space and time. In short, it is a combination of knowledge, innovation and poetics, supported by the processes of artistic research and mediated by transmedial technology.

Register today for Empowerment Self-defense Workshop

: Wednesday February 14, 2024

In Defend Yourself's interactive, participatory workshop, you'll learn practical skills to protect yourself and others such as:

- Awareness and prevention: By learning how attacks occur, and where your risks really lie, you can better recognize when you're being targeted.
- Verbal skills for stopping an attack or abuse before it becomes physical: Verbal skills are the strongest line of defense against someone who crosses your boundaries. Defend Yourself teaches boundary setting and assertiveness as the foundation of self-defense.
- Physical self-defense techniques: You'll learn simple, effective strikes to use when other strategies are not an option, allowing you to stop an attack and get to safety.

Everyone can participate - no matter how out of shape you are, or what physical limitations you have, you can do things to protect yourself.

Students can register for one of two workshops (Friday, Feb. 23 at 3 p.m. or 6:30 p.m.) at: <https://bit.ly/DefendYourself223> Register soon, as spots are limited (30 spots per session).

Digital ethnographies: Ethics of online research and social media spaces

Digital Humanities Collaborative : Wednesday February 14, 2024

The Digital Humanities Collaborative will host a talk on Feb. 23, 12:30 - 1:30 p.m. in the library, room 376 by Dr. Juli Gittinger, assistant professor of South Asian Religions, Department of Philosophy, Religion and Liberal Studies.

In this presentation, Dr. Juli Gittinger will briefly introduce the idea of digital ethnography (and its relationship to “traditional” ethnography) and how, as a discipline/tool, it has evolved in the various ages of the Internet. She will then show a range of methods or tools that one might employ, drawing from some of her own work and then focus on the more perilous territory of social media—particularly the potential ethical issues that might arise and how to address them in an Institutional Review Board or methodology section of your research.

Dr. Gittinger has engaged the digital public sphere for a number of her publications, including her first book Hinduism and Hindu Nationalism Online (Routledge 2019) and more recently with a forthcoming book American Apocalyptic (Palgrave 2024). She has also written on digital hermeneutics and mapping digital neighborhoods.

The 22nd Annual Begemann-Gordon Lecture, African Modernism: Women in Focus, A Special Talk with Lauren Tate Baeza

Philosophy Religion & Liberal Studies, Department of : Friday February 16, 2024

Wednesday, Feb. 28

5 p.m.

Peabody Auditorium

The High Museum of Art's African art collection is disproportionately representative of peoples and cultures of the modern-day nation of Nigeria, presenting the opportunity to position the institution as specialists in Nigerian art. To enrich and further contextualize this area of distinction, the African art department recently launched an initiative focused on collecting and exhibiting 20th century and modernist Nigerian art. Across subfields, art history has historically privileged male artists, making it difficult for contemporary scholars to access artwork and information about many of the women of artistically and socio-politically important periods. This talk will engage the ways in which this occurs within Nigerian art scholarship and will profile underacknowledged Nigerian women artists of the previous century.

Lauren Tate Baeza is the Fred and Rita Richman Curator of African Art at the High Museum of Art. She previously served as Director of Exhibitions at the National Center for Civil and Human Rights, where she curated the Morehouse College Martin Luther King Jr. Collection and organized numerous temporary exhibits engaging the visual arts to address social issues. Baeza speaks, lectures, and consults at nonprofit organizations, universities, and federal departments on a range of cultural and sociopolitical topics related to Africa and the African diaspora. She is also the founder of the Lagos Atlanta Artist Residency and a contributing editor at Art Papers.

Diversity 360 Series: Micro-intervention Workshop

Inclusion and Belonging, Office of : Friday February 16, 2024

Micro-intervention Workshop

Wednesday, Feb. 21 | 3:30 p.m. | Library Conference Room 302

Registration Link: <https://forms.office.com/r/Eby7uu1Sda>

Daily expressions of microaggressions in the workplace create a hostile and threatening employment climate, lower work productivity and increase employee turnover. In this workshop, you will learn how to counteract, challenge, diminish and neutralize interpersonal micro-aggressive expressions by using micro-interventions. Micro-interventions are intentional words or deeds that validate the targets' experiences, affirm their identities and offer encouragement, support and reassurance that the target is not alone.

By the end of this workshop, you will have the tools necessary to identify microaggressions when they occur, speak up and interrupt microaggressions using micro-interventions; thus, creating a more inclusive campus climate for everyone.

GCSU spring musical presents dystopian world devoid of music in “We Will Rock You”

Theatre & Dance, Department of : Tuesday February 20, 2024

Prepare to have your world shaken by Georgia College & State University's spring musical, “We Will Rock You.” It follows a group of revolutionaries in a dystopian world devoid of music who seek to free their apocalyptic society with hits by the British rock band, Queen.

The production will be in Russell Auditorium Feb. 28 through March 3.

“This play takes place 300 years in the future,” said director and associate professor of theatre, Amy Pinney. “So, humanity has changed. There is a dictatorship. There is a tyrant. Her name is Killer Queen. She started out on a video game, an adult video game, then downloads herself into her programmer, so she's half pixelated and half human—and evil.”

“She banned live music, so the only music allowed is electronically and computer-generated,” Pinney said. “There is power when people come together to create, so that has been banned.”

In 2002, the first production of “We Will Rock You” opened in London's West End, becoming the longest-running musical at Dominion Theatre at that time. By December 2022, the play had been seen by 20 million people in 28 countries. It returned to the West End last August at the London Coliseum.

It's an adventure but also a love story, about misfits and heroes. And those who yearn to belong.

For all its dystopian aspects, Pinney said the play is also filled with warmth and optimism. It'll leave audiences hopeful for the future.

There's a hippie librarian, tough feminist, yuppies (the bad guys), robocops, “Ga Ga kids” who conform and the evil queen. Citizens in this future are punished inside (real) laser cages.

A group of Bohemians (the good guys) rebel against the evil empire where free thought and choice are not allowed. Their story is based on a book by Ben Elton, a comedian and playwright, and told through songs like “We are the Champions” by Queen.

Other great Queen hits include: “I Want to Break Free,” “Somebody to Love,” “Killer Queen,” “Under Pressure,” “It's a Kind of Magic,” “Crazy Little Thing Called Love,” “Another One Bites the Dust” and, of course, “We Will Rock You.”

Everyone dresses the same, thinks the same, acts the same.

But some modern twists are added in. So, this future is also familiar. People are too busy online to interact, and some wear Virtual Reality (VR) goggles.

It's very much a 'resistance' story like Star Wars or the Hunger Games, Pinney said. The bohemians are in hiding, searching for 'the dreamer' who will restore rock music.

This turns out to be Galileo, the lead role played by senior theatre and philosophy major Bella Eclavea of Augusta, Georgia. A singer and songwriter who plays the guitar and ukulele, Eclavea grew up listening to songs of the 60s and 70s with her dad.

Even though the play takes place 300 years from now, Eclavea said it's a lot like today's world.

"We don't have a dictator," Eclavea said, "but I've already seen videos of people walking down the street wearing VR goggles."

"I've been looking at the history of rock-n-roll. It was a time on fire, and people were so connected," she said. "If there's anything I want people to walk away with, it's this: 'Think about where we're at and how much we value each other.'"

Students of all majors make up the 15-actor cast. About 50 students work behind the scenes in make-up, costume and set design. Two students did the choreography, and students are also in charge of lighting and sound.

The set is a massive mix of shipping containers and ladders, where future populations live and work. There'll be a motorcycle on stage and a five-member, live rock band playing 8 feet in the air—directed by Raymond Darius Jackson, minister of music at St. John's Missionary Baptist Church in Warner Robins.

Every musical at Georgia College takes about a year from conception to production. Crews started rehearsing in December, then three hours every night starting in early January. Each production crew becomes like family, Pinney said.

"The entire thing has been thrilling," she said. "People are going to be amazed at what these students can do. I'm incredibly proud of the community they've built, their ability to inhabit the world of the play and to exemplify what I think is most important: That when people come together to create, they're powerful."

The PG-13 production of "We Will Rock You" will be at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 28, to Saturday, March 2, and 2 p.m. Sunday, March 3, in Russell Auditorium. Tickets are $15 for general admission, senior citizens and GCSU faculty and staff; $10 for non-GCSU students; and $5 for GCSU students.

Legends of Honors: "Save the Effing Bees! Eco-Anxiety in a Shakespeare Web Series" with Dr. Jennifer Flaherty

Honors College : Tuesday February 27, 2024

This semester, the John E. Sallstrom Honors College is again pleased to host Zoom-based Legends of Honors sessions for alumni, friends, and students of the Honors College. On March 6 at 6:00 p.m., Dr. Jenny Flaherty, GCSU Professor of English, will deliver a Legends of Honors Zoom presentation titled "Save the Effing Bees! Eco-Anxiety in a Shakespeare Web Series," which focuses on the web series Bright Summer Night, an adaptation of Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream by New Zealand-based production company The Candle Wasters. The series reimagines Shakespeare's comedy as a carnivalesque party in Wellington in 2016, substituting substance abuse for Cupid's flower and the pressures of the contemporary youth experience for the oppressive laws of Athens. As characters fixate on the personal joys and fears of friendships and romances, they are also preoccupied with the grief and stress of living during a growing global environmental catastrophe. Drawing on ecocriticism, adaptation theory, and youth studies, this session will explore how Shakespeare can be used by young people as social commentary in the digital age. Please register below for "Save the Effing Bees! Eco-Anxiety in a Shakespeare Web Series" with Dr. Jennifer Flaherty and we will send you the Zoom link as well as a timely reminder.

CAPTRUST on Campus April 9 - Schedule Your Appointment

Human Resources, Office of : Tuesday February 27, 2024

CAPTRUST Financial Advisors, the independent financial advisory firm that works with the University System of Georgia's Supplemental Retirement Programs, will be on site conducting individual financial planning meetings April 9, 2024, in the Wooten-Garner House Conference Room from 8 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. All appointments are for 45 minutes.

Topics covered in the 45-minute individual advisory sessions include, but are not limited to retirement and general financial planning and investment education and advice. You also will have an opportunity to create a Retirement Blueprint, CAPTRUST's interactive retirement readiness tool. The blueprint is an unbiased, comprehensive financial plan that will help an employee answer some difficult questions such as:

- Am I on track for retirement?
- How much do I need to save?
- How should I invest my money?
- When can I retire?
- How long will my money last?

To learn more about the Blueprint, you can view a short, informative video by clicking here.

To schedule your one-on-one appointment for April 9th, click here and follow the steps outlined below:

1. Click "Georgia College & State University 1:1's –" and then click continue at the bottom.
2. Choose the 45-minute session you wish to attend.
3. Enter your information and click Schedule It. A confirmation email will then be sent immediately.
4. A reminder email will also be sent 24 hours in advance of the meeting.
5. If you need to cancel or change your meeting time, click the link received in the confirmation/reminder email. Then enter your last name and confirmation number.
6. If you have any questions or need assistance, please call CAPTRUST at 800.967.9948.

To be best prepared for these sessions, please make sure you have the information you want to include in your discussion such as your USG retirement account statements and login information for your USG retirement accounts at either Corebridge Financial (formerly AIG), Fidelity, and/or TIAA. Feel free to include your spouse/partner in your meeting and any other financial information you would like to review or include in your discussion.

If you can't make a live session, please schedule an appointment with the CAPTRUST Advice Desk by visiting www.captrustadvice.com.

Be Resilient: Stories, Strategies and Tools to Rise Above Your Circumstances

Teacher Education, Department of : Wednesday February 28, 2024

Dr. LeAnne Salazar-Montoya has had a varied path through education. As a public servant and an educator in New Mexico and later in Nevada, she brings a message of equity and success for the marginalized. Her research spans the areas of liberal arts, women in education and leadership, Latino culture and the changing roles of Latinos in society, the importance of diversifying leadership in K-12 schools, the power of mentorships and lessons on belonging and overcoming barriers. She also has expertise in ESOL and Special Education. Her research and message are accessible and inspiring to all audiences, particularly pre-service and in-service educators, educational leaders and community partners seeking to support educational organizations. Her story is also beneficial to public school and college students dealing with difficult circumstances.
