

About Chad Wilson

Chad Wilson, an Atlanta based traditional visual artist, has been drawing most of his life. Largely self taught, he took as many art and art based classes in school as were offered, and earned a Degree in Graphic Design. For decades, he worked unrelated jobs, and created print media and websites on the side as a necessity. However, a most inconvenient pandemic was the catalyst to a personal renaissance. His focus turned once again to creating traditional art. Favoring portraiture, he incorporates modern themes in the ways of the masters of old. Chad primarily uses acrylic paints , gouache, and watercolor on various papers, canvases, and boards to create his paintings. His work has been exhibited many times, has won awards, and is collected by various private collectors in Georgia, Texas, Florida, and North Carolina, USA.
