Good Evening and Welcome to “Mirrors and Windows”

Music has the power to connect, reflect, and inspire, and tonight’s concert is built on those very ideas. Mirrors and Windows is more than a collection of pieces—it is a commitment to intentional programming, ensuring that every student on stage experiences music that resonates with their identity while also encountering new perspectives.

Throughout this program, you will hear works that act as mirrors, reflecting the identities, emotions, and experiences of the musicians on stage, creating a sense of belonging and connection. At the same time, you will also hear windows—music that introduces us to different cultures, emotions, and viewpoints, expanding our understanding of the world through sound. What serves as a mirror for one student may be a window for another, adding depth and complexity to the experience.

The selections tonight were thoughtfully chosen through conversations with our students, who shared their perspectives on identity, culture, and artistic expression. Their voices helped shape this program, ensuring it truly represents the ensemble performing it. With compositions by women and underrepresented composers, tonight’s concert is a celebration of the rich diversity of musical storytelling.

As you listen, we invite you to reflect on your own experiences—what pieces feel like mirrors to you? What windows offer new insights? Music is most powerful when it fosters connection, and tonight, we hope you find both familiarity and discovery in what you hear.

Thank you for being part of this journey. Your presence affirms the importance of representation, diversity, and the shared experience of music. We hope you enjoy Mirrors and Windows as much as we have enjoyed preparing it for you!
