

Georgia College & State University hosts spooky season events ahead of Halloween

Published 11:07 am Wednesday, October 21, 2026

By Special to The U-R

GCSU has a slate of spooky events scheduled for the Halloween season, starting this Friday. From a zombie Florence Nightingale to environmentally friendly decorations, we hope you'll join us for these fun fall events!

Death After Dark Tours: Death After Dark at Georgia's Old Governor's Mansion focuses on the deathways of the 19th century, including the causes of death, autopsies, embalming, caretakers of the dead, mourning practices, cemeteries and even grave robbing. This tour emphasizes the inequalities that existed in relation to death in this time period, which varied considerably depending on race, gender, social class and age. Reservations required. Call 478-445-4545.

Friday, Oct. 23, on the hour at 6, 7 and 8 p.m.

Georgia's Old Governor's Mansion

120 S. Clarke St., Milledgeville, GA 31061

Pumpkin Carving & Painting at Andalusia: Join us at Andalusia, the Home of Flannery O'Connor, for a festive morning of pumpkin carving and painting. Participants are invited to get creative and decorate a pumpkin to take home. All pumpkins and decorating supplies will be provided, and a tent with tables and chairs will be set up for participants to use. Advance registration is encouraged.

Saturday, Oct. 24, 10 a.m. to Noon

Andalusia, The Home of Flannery O'Connor

2628 N. Columbia St., Milledgeville, GA 31061

DIY Halloween Decorations: You know what's scary? Cheap, single-use Halloween decorations! The GCSU Office of Sustainability will be on Front Campus Monday to help you create your own decorations mindfully.

Monday, Oct. 26, Noon to 4 p.m.

Georgia College Front Campus

231 W. Hancock St., Milledgeville, GA 31061