ADAPTOR/
DIRECTOR:
KARIN COONROD

Karin Coonrod is an American theater director and writer who is on the faculty of the David Geffen School of Drama at Yale and is known for her modern adaptations of classic plays by William Shakespeare and other playwrights.

From a story by Flannery O'Connor and created for the stage by Karin Coonrod, this is a tragic-comic interracial seat-shifting dance by whites and blacks on a bus in America's deep South.

Come meet Actor Stacy Scott and director Karin Coonrod in person! See a film of the play and enjoy a Q&A opportunity you may never have again!
